FEAST AND PRAYER NATION OBSERVES DAY OF THANKS

Oakland People Find Much to Be Grateful For in Last Year.

Thanksgiving Day passed very quietly in this city today. It was truly a day of thanks in this city, during the past year Oakland has abounded in prosperity and giant strides have been taken in its progress. The population has increased materially, property values have been enhanced and the air is permeated with a spirit of advancement. For all these things Oaklanders today gave thanks.

The business houses were closed, as were the municipal and county offices. Everyone celebrated the day, set by our forefathers to give thanks for the which has been accorded them during the past year. The weather was propitious for a holiday and many visited the amusement places. Oakland was visited by many outsiders and the crowds that circulated about the streets were large.

Impressive Thanksgiving services were held today at the many churches. The downtown evangelical churches, held their united services in the First Congregational Church, in which all the ministers took part. Dr. Hare of the Centennial Presbyterian Church preached the Thanksgiving Day sermon at the joint services of the First Congregational Church, which was held at the Twentieth-avenue Methodist Church.

Services at the St. Paul Church were held this morning and more will be held at 8 o'clock this evening. The charitable Thanksgiving dinner was given by the Volunteers of America to many poor folks who could not have a bird of their own.

Thanksgiving Day was observed at the Providence Hospital by serving a big dinner which the patients are always treated to every year on this day. All those who were able to leave their diets, participated in the courses which were served with plenty of light and meat.

IN ALAMEDA.
ALAMEDA, Nov. 28.—The First Methodist Episcopal Church was today the scene of the united Thanksgiving services. Rev. C. M. Hill delivered the sermon and the invocation was given by Rev. J. W. Bryant. Other parts of the service were conducted by Revs. Clarence Reed, Clyde Eber, L. Potter, Hitchcock, Frank S. Brush, The First Methodist Episcopal Church choir rendered the music. The quartet is composed of Miss Goldie White, Miss Edith Stetson, Ernest Wilson and Vernon Hawley. The chorus is composed of Misses Laura Bannerman, Helen Vollmer, Edna Wittman, Irma Hard, Florence Cadman, Messrs. Paul Cadman, Chesleigh Healy, Charles Cadman, Miss Fern Frost presided at the organ.

DAY IN BERKELEY.
BERKELEY, Nov. 28.—The various communities of Berkeley united in a Thanksgiving service in the Greek Theater this morning. With the church people, were gathered many members of the faculty of the University of California and nearly all of the town officials. A feature of the great service was the splendid orchestral and choral music rendered by well known musicians under the direction of Dr. Fred Wolfe, the symphony leader.

The sermon of the day was delivered by Rev. Dr. Hutsinpillar of the Trinity Methodist Church. Other Berkeley ministers assisted in the services. Mayor Thomas Rickard read the President's Thanksgiving proclamation. This afternoon a great many Thanksgiving dinners were enjoyed by society folks and their friends. The large number of San Francisco families now residing in Berkeley added to the entertaining and made this Thanksgiving one of the gayest that Berkeley has ever enjoyed.

Charity, too, was dispensed with lavish hand. While there are very few families in Berkeley needing assistance. Those that were in such need were bountifully supplied by the Berkeley Benevolent Society, the Y. M. C. A. and the Elks assisted in this good work and many a Thanksgiving dinner found its way into humble cottages through the efforts of the city.

VISITS THE TOMBS.
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Roland B. Molineux surprised the officers at the Tombs by dropping in yesterday for a little visit. He had, of course, a little visit. He had not been there more than three years and it was his

SCHMITZ IS CHEERFUL; FRIENDS CALL

Mayor Rises Early and Keeps Open House.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz, who has been placed under arrest on a charge of extortion, passed the earlier part of Thanksgiving day receiving friends who called to see him at his home. Visitors came and went continuously.

The Mayor arose early and appeared to be in cheerful spirits. He seemed much rested despite the strenuous day at which he retired. The Mayor is due to appear in Judge Dunne's court next Monday to answer five charges of extortion.

LOST GIRL LOCKED AT NIGHT IN BARN

Strange Explanation of Miss Pond's Absence.

VALLEJO, Nov. 28.—Miss Elizabeth Keith-Pond, daughter of Commander Pond, who is in charge of the naval magazines on Mare Island, who disappeared mysteriously about 4 o'clock yesterday, was found this morning on the island. The parents of the girl are very loath to have it said that she disappeared. They state that during their absence yesterday afternoon, their daughter went to the stables to get her horse, preparatory to taking a ride. They declare that when she entered the stable, the door swung behind her, locked on the outside and thus kept her a prisoner.

This story, however, cannot be credited, for when the parents came to the stable, they found the door open and the girl sitting on the horse. The girl's explanation of her absence was that she had been locked in the barn by a man who had been drinking and was in a state of intoxication. She said that she had been locked in the barn for several hours and that she had been unable to get out. She said that she had been very frightened and that she had been unable to call for help.

REAR-END COLLISION ON SOUTHERN ROAD! PASSENGERS BURNED

President of Railway Is Killed; Many People Are Badly Hurt.

THE CARS WERE RANSACKED FOR PLUNDER. F. M. CURTIS OF JAMESTOWN, N. Y., SAW ONE NEGRO PORTER GO THROUGH A LADY'S GRIP. HE SAW HIM THROW AWAY SUCH THINGS AS WERE OF NO VALUE TO HIM, AND APPROPRIATE THOSE THINGS THAT HE WANTED. MR. CURTIS DECLARED THAT HE WOULD HAVE CERTAINLY KILLED THE PORTER IF HE HAD HAD SOMETHING TO DO IT WITH. NOT A FEW PASSENGERS ENGAGED IN THIS GHOULISH BUSINESS AND A LARGE NUMBER OF VALUABLES AND MUCH MONEY WHICH WAS SCATTERED ABOUT THE WRECKED TRAIN WAS TAKEN.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 28.—President Samuel Spencer, of the Southern Railway system, who was en route to the south, was killed this morning in a rear-end collision at Lynchburg, ten miles south of Lynchburg. The private car in which he was riding was struck and split open by the colliding locomotive and caught fire. The body of Mr. Spencer was burned almost beyond recognition. In the car with him were Philip Schuyler of New York City; Mr. Spencer's private secretary, Merrill, and his private driver, D. W. Davis of Alexandria, Va. Operator Davis was crushed and died in fifteen minutes. Mr. Schuyler was instantly killed, but his body was not badly burned before it was rescued by passengers. Engineer C. Perry, who was on the rear train, was killed. Private Secretary Merrill was injured, but the nature of his injuries has not been learned. He will be brought to this city about noon. Twelve or thirteen passengers, most of them negroes, were wounded, only one of whom is thought to be fatally hurt.

Eight negroes are in the city hospital here, having arrived at 11 o'clock. SPENCER INSTANTLY KILLED.
The collision was between train No. 25, the Jacksonville Express, and train No. 37, the Washington & Southwestern vestibule limited. The Jacksonville train stopped on the top of a heavy grade a mile north of Lynchburg depot, to repair a slight breakdown, and before it was started, a nagman could get back to protect the train the Atlanta train dashed into it.

The heavy engine of the train plowed into the private car of President Spencer in which he and his guests are supposed to have been sleeping. Immediately the private car caught fire. Every piece of woodwork on the engine stands there torn, twisted and useless. It was under the locomotive that the burned body of President Spencer was found. It is evident that Mr. Spencer was instantly killed and that he did not suffer the tortures of being burned.

FACES DEATH CALMLY.
Dispatcher Davis was alive when taken from under the wreckage. He was crushed about the lower part of the body and was conscious until the end. He asked that word be sent to his wife and child. The death of Mr. Davis was touching. He stated to his rescuer that he knew he was dying and knew that the end could not be far off. "Place your finger on my mouth," he said. "It feels so cool and good."

He pleaded with the gentleman, who was also a passenger on the train, not to leave him and for ten minutes the man stayed with him until he saw that nothing more could be done for him.

GHOULS WORK IN WRECKAGE.
The cars were ransacked for plunder. Mr. Curtis, of Jamestown, N. Y., saw one negro porter go through a lady's grip. He saw him throw away such things as were of no value to him and appropriate those things that he wanted. Mr. Curtis declared that he would have certainly killed the porter if he had had something to do it with.

Not a few passengers engaged in this ghoulish business and a large number of valuables and much money which was scattered about the wrecked train was taken.

Mr. Curtis, who was on his way to High Point, N. C., on a business mission, was the hero of the hour. It was claimed by several of his fellow passengers that to his work and generalship belongs the credit of the rescue of a dozen persons. Several persons not seriously wounded were taken out from the two cars that were burned and six negro passengers were taken from the wreckage, but it was after 10 o'clock before the special reached Lynchburg.

CAUSE OF WRECK UNKNOWN.
The cause of the wreck cannot be learned now, but it is said that the operators in charge of the locomotive at Rangoon, four miles north of the scene, allowed the Atlanta train to enter the block before they had given a clear track from the next block station at Lynchburg depot, five miles below.

No. 33, the Jacksonville train, came to a stop at one of the heaviest grades on the road between Lynchburg and Jacksonville.

ACTRESS IS ANNOUNCED
Miss Frances Slosson Became the Bride of Franklyn Underwood Last August.

Courtship that dates back to earthquake days and followed by a secret marriage in Santa Cruz in August, are made known today when Franklin Underwood, leading man at the Liberty Theater, surprised his many friends by claiming as his wife that popular and talented actress, Frances Slosson. Underwood left Florence Roberts' company a year ago to accept an engagement with the Bishop company at the Majestic Theater, in San Francisco. Then came the earthquake and he and his friends placed their flat at the disposal of less fortunate acquaintances. Among them was Miss Slosson. They were married in Santa Cruz, August 17, and the following day she left for Portland, Ore., to fill an engagement with the Baker stock company. She will appear at the Liberty Theater next Monday evening, having accepted an indefinite engagement.

CONDEMNATION SUITS ARE FILED BY W. P. COMPANY

Actions Are Against Owners of Property Through Route of Proposed Freight Line.

Ten condemnation suits were filed yesterday by the Western Pacific Company against the owners of the property through which the corporation proposes to run a freight line from Boole's shipyard at the foot of Larkin street, north-easterly to Broadway, at a point just south of First street. This line would parallel that of the Southern Pacific Company along First street.

The defendants named in the condemnation proceedings and the extent of territory asked for are:

From the Oakland Equitable Gas Company the railroad wants 23,120 square feet; the Southern Pacific Company, 687,85 square feet; the Pacific Iron and Mail Company, 23,202 square feet; the Oakland Gas, Light and Heat Company, 20,812 square feet; Edson Adams, 2900 square feet; Ashbury J. Russell, Peter L. Fisher and William C. Bosley, as trustees of the Samuel Merritt Hospital, 31,864 square feet; the Howard Company, south and north extensions of Filbert and Myrtle streets, the Oakland Water Front Company, 13,038 square feet; the Puget Sound Lumber Company, 13,008 square feet; Taylor & Company, 17,288 square feet.

It is said that the Union Belt Line of Oakland, of which W. J. Casey is president and R. M. Fitzgerald attorney, is preparing another application for a franchise to construct a belt line parallel to the one now being run by the Southern Pacific Company in East Oakland, having obtained a franchise from the Board of Supervisors last Monday and being promised another by the City Council.

Fitzgerald asserts that his line, if franchised and secured, will connect with that of the Western Pacific Company at First and Broadway.

GIGANTIC PLANS FORMED FOR EXTENSIVE TERMINUS

Santa Fe Railroad Company Have Filed Application for a Franchise With Clerk.

Gigantic plans are being formulated, it is said, by the Santa Fe Railroad company, to establish an extensive terminus at Twentieth and Adeline streets, in the heart of a residence portion of the city. It has not been announced as yet, whether this station will be entirely for freight purposes or whether a passenger depot will also be established.

The company last night filed an application with the City Clerk, asking the City Council to grant it a franchise to construct and operate a steam railroad line from Halleck street, at the northern boundary of Oakland, in Emeryville, south to Wood street, thence south to Twentieth, thence east on Twentieth to Adeline street.

This line would run from the present terminus of the Santa Fe in Emeryville to the proposed new stations at Twentieth and Adeline streets.

The proposed route of the Santa Fe overlaps that which the Western Pacific company mapped out in the projected extension of its Third-street line and Wood street to the northern boundary line of the city, and for which is asked a franchise of the City Council last Monday night. It is also said that the Southern Pacific company contemplates applying for a franchise along Twentieth street, which line would also overlap the route set forth in the application of the Santa Fe company.

The Southern Pacific, it is said, intends to ask for a right of way along Twentieth street, in order to make a connecting link for a new cross-town suburban electric railway system, which would run westward along Twentieth, from Franklin street, in extension of its projected changing of the Alameda system to electricity.

The Santa Fe recently purchased a block of land 300 feet square at its proposed Adeline-street terminus. The tract was owned by a man named Ryan, and he was paid $42,000 for the property.

The company has also secured property already on both sides of Wood street, between Twentieth and Twenty-second streets, where the Western Pacific company's proposed line overlaps the line of the Santa Fe. The announcement was also made several days ago by Attorney Robert M. Fitzgerald that it was the intention to extend the proposed belt line as far as Emeryville, which will probably mean another applicant for a franchise along thoroughfares in the vicinity of Wood and Twentieth streets. Wood street parallels the present line of the Southern Pacific company along the east shore of Oakland and taps a district in which many industries are now located, making it a freight center.

F. W. McDonald, industrial commissioner of the Santa Fe, stated last night that his company had been working on the proposed extension of its system for about ten days, and the application, filed last night with the City Clerk, was the result of the project.

McDonald, in speaking of the proposed extension of the Santa Fe system and the establishing of a terminus at Twentieth and Adeline streets, said last night:

"This application was made simply to get us better freight handling facilities. Oakland has become a large freight producer, and we need closer connections with the business center of the city. The fact that our proposed line crosses the proposed line of the Western Pacific does not mean that any trouble between the two companies will result. We are not trying to interfere with any plans of the Gould lines."

FINDS FIRST DIME AFTER 65 YEARS

FIVE MONTHS WITHOUT FOOD; HE LIVES

After an absence of sixty-five years Frank Bookwalter, a millionaire of Springfield, O., has returned to his old home in Indiana. One of his first acts was to recover a silver dime that he had lost when he was 5 years old, just before he went away.

The dime had been given to him by his grandfather, and he was playing with it on the doorstep. He dropped it and it fell into the crack of the stone steps. The boy's parents were poor when they went to Ohio. The boy had his own way to make, and he soon developed a love for mechanics. As a young man he made some inventions that made him wealthy and now he is several times a millionaire.

Last week he came back to his boyhood home.

His business and his wealth had not made him forget the dime he had lost sixty-five years before, and as soon as he got to the old house he offered a man $1 to get the dime. A crowbar was brought, the stone was lifted from their foundations, and the dime was recovered. One side of it was black, but the other was unaltered. Mr. Bookwalter said that the recovery of that dime gave him as much pleasure as had the making of many thousands.

HELD UP AND SHOT

W. P. Delworth Is Attacked In His Store by Unknown Man.

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 20.—W. P. Delworth, proprietor of the Delworth hardware store here, was shot and probably fatally wounded this morning by an unknown man in an attempt to rob the store. The robber escaped. A stranger entered the store and asked to see a revolver. He then asked for cartridges which he put into the revolver and turned it on the clerk, telling him to hold up his hands and turn over the cash in the drawer. Mr. Delworth, happening in at the moment, was also told to hold up his hands. Thinking it a joke, Delworth laughed at him when the man began to shoot. Two shots took effect, one in Delworth's wrist, the other in the side.

LOST GIRL IS LOCKED IN BARN

Home, and discovered Miss Pond's absence, a search was immediately begun. They notified the naval authorities, and under the leadership of Henry W. Lyon, the rear admiral station commandant, the country was scoured. The stables were thoroughly searched, but Miss Pond was not there.

The search was kept up all night, and it was not until this morning that the girl was located somewhere on the island. Her parents refuse to state where she was found, and are trying to hush the matter up.

The young woman, so far as can be learned, was last seen leaving the home of her father. She was not dressed in a manner that would indicate she was contemplating a journey of any great distance, and did not appear to be laboring under any emotional or nervous stress.

Her disappearance became known to the family around 4 o'clock in the afternoon. They began making inquiries, thinking that she might be visiting friends on the island, but when it became dark and no trace of her could be found, they became alarmed and instantly began to institute a systematic search.

Miss Pond is a Berkeley girl and is unusually attractive. Her engagement to Dr. Francis Shock was recently announced. The circumstances surrounding her disappearance, together with the reticence of the police and her family, is much of a puzzle to the people of this city.

MODEL FARM ADVANTAGES.

The model farm in each county should do for the farming population what the technical school does for the intending artisan and the schools of special training for those who enter the professions. It would carry the agricultural college in practice into every neighborhood. It does not seem reasonable to doubt that the improvement in farming in the United States would be great. The facts and principles which it is desirable to put into effect are well established and are acted upon in other parts of the world, where tillage has been carried to a higher degree of efficiency. Other countries produce from an inferior soil double the yield of our fertile fields. Many of our farmers already, in single instances, have quietly adopted better methods, and have grown rich. What is needed now is to get the ten or eleven million persons in the United States, ten years old and upward, who are engaged in agricultural pursuits to apply this available information to their daily work, and thus permit nature to do her best.—From James J. Hill's "Government Model Farms" in the December Century.

RICHMOND'S NEWSY NOTES

All the Sayings and Doings of the Neighborhood are Faithfully Chronicled.

RICHMOND, Nov. 20.—Last evening the paragon of the First Baptist church was formally opened, when the Rev. and Mrs. F. C. R. Jackson, welcomed their many friends and the members of that organization to their new home.

The new structure is finely built and has eight large and commodious rooms, modern in every respect, and reflects great credit upon the pastor who has labored zealously the past few months in raising the funds and assisting with his own hands in the erection of the same. The cost of the structure is about $3000, and it has been erected on a fine, slightly elevated location adjacent to the church on scenic road, near Washington avenue. Its location is the best possible for a social center and it is nicely adapted and convenient as the permanent home of the pastor of the nearby church.

In the recount of votes on the candidate for constable for the Tenth ward, which was held at Martin's yesterday, John E. Bouquet won out over Conlan, who had been declared elected by a vote of one—the vote of 166 to 165.

Mrs. Murray Laidlaw of Crockett is guest today at the home of her sister, Mrs. G. A. Follett.

Douglas Hilton, a former employee of the Santa Fe at this place, but now living at Bakersfield, came up yesterday to be in attendance at the given by the Native Sons at East Shore Park last evening. He will return home tonight.

Despite adverse weather conditions last evening a big attendance was recorded at the second annual grand ball given under the auspices of Richmond Parlor No. 247 N. S. G. W., at East Shore Pavilion. Natives congregated from near and far, and it was a merry party which made up the assembly. The reception committee, composed of R. Coleman, Mesdames J. F. Stiefvater, C. D. Whitcomb, E. Weise, G. A. Dimick, R. H. Spierch, A. C. Lang and the Misses Chichester and E. M. Rihn left nothing undone for the comfort and pleasure of the guests. The arrangements for the entire affair were in charge of C. J. Rihn, W. A. Foster and H. L. Sharer. A program of twenty-four numbers was danced to the splendid music furnished by Sparaz's ten-piece orchestra. Supper was served at midnight.

Joseph P. Penny, a resident of Fourteenth street in this city, who was terribly burned about the legs and lower portion of his body, by falling into an acid vat at the Standard Oil works on the night of October 31, died yesterday at Roosevelt Hospital in Berkeley, as a result of his injuries. Deceased was 52 years of age and leaves a wife and daughter. He has been a resident of Richmond for about two years having moved here from Valonia, this country.

Rev. D. W. Calfee, pastor of the First M. E. Church in this city, was the speaker at the funeral service of a former friend, F. F. Hardwick, who died at that place yesterday. Mr. Hardwick was a pioneer of Stanislaus county.

F. King went to Los Gatos yesterday to enjoy Thanksgiving around the festive board of his mother.

The band boys gave a very successful dance at Maple Hall last evening.

Some miscreants, who had neither the fear of God nor man in their hearts, set fire to the hotel occupied by Joe Smith at Bull Dog Point yesterday afternoon. The fire was discovered by Smith when he was on the bay, about two miles distant from shore, but before he could row ashore the building which he was wont to call home was destroyed. Joe makes a business of hunting during the open season and supplies the local market with the greater portion of delicacies of this kind. He is a good-natured character and has not an enemy to his knowledge who would do a like deed. It is presumably the work of some miscreant who has been hunting for a while.

The owner states that there had been no fire in the cabin during the day and that it must have been set by some one prowling about the place, either by accident or design.

The trustees of Richmond went down to Oakland yesterday and purchased a fine large safe at a bargain for the municipality's papers and books. The cost was $300.

Later, a similar excursion, composed of business men from the city of St. Louis will visit the republic.

ALLEGED MURDERER'S THANKSGIVING IN JAIL.

ful sights on the lake; that if I wanted to see all the sights I had better take a row boat. We went down to the dock and secured a row boat.

"We started along the south shore. We saw a rustic bridge, open camp and a bathhouse, and then we went to South Bay."

WHERE DEATH OCCURRED.

South Bay is where Grace Brown's death occurred.

"We talked about what we ought to do," the defendant testified, "and I said that we ought not to keep on as we had. I finally said that I thought her father and mother ought to know what had occurred. She said that she could not tell her mother, and cried. I told her that she would have to. She said, 'You don't know my father; you can't tell him.'"

"We talked a little more, and then she flew up and jumped into the water; just jumped in. I was in the other end, leaning back. When I started to get up the boat turned over. When I came up I caught hold of the boat."

"Did you see her?" asked Attorney Mills.

"DENIES BEING MURDERER."

"I could not; after a couple of minutes, when I could not see, I swam to the shore. I went off through the woods with my stuff. I had landed near it. My hat was in the water, I guess."

He told of going through the forest and of striking a road, meeting two men in one place and a third farther on. About the tennis racket, he said that it was in the way. "I had my suit case," Gillette said, "and I decided to put the racket away. I put it under a log in the woods a little way from the road."

Gillette told of visiting Eagle Bay, the Arrowhead Inlet and his trip to Seventh lake.

"Chester, did you strike Grace Brown a blow or do anything willfully to cause her death?" asked Attorney Mills.

"No, sir," said Gillette.

SAW WOUND ABOVE EYE

Physician Testifies to Examination of Grace Brown's Body.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Dr. Eugene H. Elsing, of this city who has been called to testify in the Gillette case at Trenton, is said to have been the first physician to examine Grace Brown's body after it was found.

In an interview with a Herald reporter he declared he has not made a full examination of the body and head, but his observations entirely to the head, where he noticed an abrasion on the forehead over the left eye.

"Could the wound have been caused by the body falling on rocks in the water?" "No, I think not," said Dr. Elsing; "the face and head had been making life miserable for residents and business men in the vicinity of State and Broad streets, the center of the city. Complaint as to the nerve-debilitating power of the machine has been made by the clerical force of the city board of assessors in the city hall, just opposite. They allege that it is impossible to figure correctly when such melodies as 'Keep on the Sunny Side' and 'Moon Dear' are being poured into their ears."

Counselor William J. Rackes has offices adjoining and he complains that his reading of Blackstone is impossible while the racket is going on. The city authorities are hopeful that they can make the "anti-noise" ordinance fit the case and some action will likely be taken next week by common council.

TRAINS IN COLLISION; GHOUES ROB THE DEAD

and Danville. If the trains had come together a mile farther south it is believed that hardly a person on either train would have come out of the wreck. The trains were running late. On account of the heavy equipment of the rear train it was not until about 10:30 p.m. that the passengers thinking that the speed could not have been more than thirty or forty miles an hour. Ten minutes later the rear train was seen to have been up to sixty miles an hour.

Train No. 21, which was struck, was composed of a mail car, combination baggage and passenger coach, two Pullmans and President Spencer's car.

The rear sleeper, to which the private coach was attached, was wrecked, but it was not burned. The regular day coach and the forward Pullman cars were practically unharmed, but the combination coach, second from the engine, was crushed.

LIFE OF PRESIDENT SPENCER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern Railway Company, was a resident of Washington, but his home was in the city of Richmond, Va. He was one of the most prominent railroad men of the United States, and for nearly twenty years had been at the head of one or more great railroad enterprises. At the time of his death, in addition to the Southern, he was president and director of the Chesapeake and Potomac, the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Pacific Railway, the Georgia Southern and for the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia Railway Company. He was a member of the rapid transit commission of this city from 1881 to 1884.

Mr. Spencer was born in Columbus, Ga., in 1847, and was educated in the University of Georgia and the University of Virginia. In 1872 he married, Louisa Vivian Beringer at Columbus, Ga.

Mr. Spencer's destination was Philadelphia, where he was going on a hunting trip.

The seriously injured are: Samuel Cox, negro cook in Mr. Spencer's car.

William Pollard, negro porter in Mr. Spencer's car.

Four negro passengers in the forward end of the train were seriously injured.

WHY THANKSGIVING WAS DISCOVERED BY WHITE SLUGGS

Once upon a time there was a bunch of sailors got shipwrecked on a rocky shore and their boat went to pieces on the rocks. They swam ashore and camped for the night. The next morning was November 23—a Thursday. It was a Wednesday they ran up against it and so on a Thursday they held a meeting and returned thanks to God for saving their lives even if they did loose the blooming boat. And ever since that day and a year we all hold a pow, wow and return thanks for what we have received through the year past. Many of us today are up on the rocks and can't see but little to thank for. But I like Thanksgiving; it sort of opens the season for the good old Holiday times. Then comes Christmas, New Years and they all call for good clothes, better hats, new shoes, fine shirts, warm foot-stirring underwear and such things.

BIG CROWDS WELCOME SCHMITZ

FATHER YORKE'S BITTER PHILLIPIC ON THE PRESS

Denounces the Grand Jury as Immoral and the Graft Investigation as Aimed at the Unions.

Father Yorke's speech was in part as follows:

"I am here for the purpose of performing one of the first duties of a citizen and that is to stand for fair play. To stand for fair play, to stand for a square deal is a duty that transcends any other civic duty, because it is a duty written in golden letters in the commandments of God. 'Do unto others as you would have others do unto you.'

"I come not as a friend of Mayor Schmitz. I come as a lover of fair play. Time and time again my conscience has forced me to differ, again and again to criticize the administration. I owe him no favors and I expect none. I come as a man to meet a man, to see that he shall have a square deal.

"It is now more than twenty years since I first came under the American flag. From boyhood I was taught to call this country the land of liberty. I did not think of anything but that that flag stood for equal justice and that no man should be condemned without a hearing. (Applause.)

Praises Schmitz's Magnanimity.

"It is not so long ago, ladies and gentlemen, since the solid earth shook here in terror. It is not so long ago since you were driven at the point of the bayonet from your own houses through your own street. It is not so long ago since this whole city was as a stricken town. On Wednesday the 18th day of April, I was in the city of Los Angeles when the news came of the earthquake in San Francisco. Hurrying home on a train that seemed to stop at every crossing, without a word from San Francisco, you can well understand how that night passed.

The first authentic news that we got of the situation here was in Fresno, and when, in that early morning, I read a Fresno paper, I broke down and cried. I did not know before that whether I had a roof over my head, or whether my people were safe. But why I broke down and cried was not that I knew that my place was safe, or that my people were safe, but it was when I read the names of the committee that had been appointed by Mayor Schmitz to look after the interests of the city. (Applause. I saw in the first names upon that committee his bitterest political enemies. I saw first the names of men who had spent time and money to slander and calumniate him. And when I knew that the was able to rise above all these things, and put them on for the safety of the city and for the honor of our name. I thanked God that we had as a Mayor a man, a patriot, and a statesman. (Applause.)

And let me say here that if Mayor Schmitz were as guilty as his enemies say he is, I would be here tonight for that one deed alone, to stand up and to say a good word in his behalf.

IT IS ONLY A SHORT TIME SINCE THE DAYS OF THE EARTHQUAKE, THE DAYS OF THE FIRE, THE DAYS OF THE REHABILITATION. IT IS ONLY A SHORT TIME, ALMOST PASSING LIKE A DAY DREAM, SINCE THIS MAN PROVED HIMSELF A MAN OF MIGHT AND A MAN OF POWER, AND WHAT DO THEY SAY NOW? THE VERY MEN—THE VERY MEN, I SAY—THAT HE PUT INTO POSITION, THE VERY MEN INTO WHOSE HANDS HE GAVE THE DIGNITY OF THE CITY, COME NOW TO CAST MUD UPON HIM AND TO STRIKE AT HIS GOOD NAME, WHEN HE IS 10,000 MILES AWAY.

I saw as I came in here tonight, a banner lifted up there. Aye, it is no thing to laugh at. Talk of graft, talk of greed, talk of robbery! The worst graft is grafting the pennies of the poor. The worst greed is to steal the coppers from a poor man's hand. Aye, the worst graft is, this night, when the heavens are open, and when the cold rain is pouring down, to walk through the streets of your city and to see in every square, to see in every vacant lot, the poor, worn tents in which the citizens of San Francisco are sleeping—and four million dollars of relief funds in the San Francisco banks.

A ROAST FOR SPRECKELS.

What could we expect of a Spreckels? It is an old saying that it is like to cure a rotten egg. Like rather, like son. And it is not a great pity for the people of San Francisco to see the sun rising out of such a cloud of scum as the Spreckels family and the Spreckels regime? Do the poor German grocers who, in the days gone by, bought the stock of the sugar company and were frozen out of it—do they think you are going to get civic purity from a Spreckels? Do you, who remember the San Joaquin valley fraud, when they told you you were to have a competing railroad, when they assessed the very banks, when they took the money from the servant girls, and then sold out—do you think anything good can come out of the house of Spreckels?

Aye, do you remember the time, not so long ago, when they went to the Supervisors and got a franchise—not your Labor Union Supervisors (a voice, "Not much"). Not much, indeed, but your Supervisors who were so rich that they did not need to steal. They got a franchise, and tore up every street in the city and signed householder after householder on a contract that they would give them a fair deal, and when they got it all, sold it for five or six millions. Do you think that any good will come out of hands tainted, not to the elbows, not to the arms, but body and soul and breeches, in the blackest and most despicable manner?

Aye, but if we are not going to get reform from Rudolph Spreckels and his hundred thousand dollars (save the mark), we are going to get it from the newspapers. The great moral intelligence of San Francisco, the newspapers are on their hind legs tonight—the Call and the Chronicle and the Bulletin and the Examiner. They are all together.

ROASTS THE NEWSPAPERS.

The newspapers, like the wolves, always hunt in packs (laughter). And you have the cry of the pack tonight, ringing loud and long over San Francisco; the cry of the pack, with their sounds of defamation. I would not care for that. I do not speak of the Call; I do not speak of the Chronicle; I do not speak of the Bulletin; I speak of the one paper, the Examiner.

Do you remember that in the middle of that tremendous strike, the assassin in the east struck down President McKinley?

You remember the cry that then went throughout San Francisco, that the responsibility for McKinley's death lay upon Hearst and the Hearst newspapers. There was a time then when there was a concentration in the business office of the San Francisco Examiner, and the warmth of all the furnaces in the world would not warm the feet of the editorial department. There was a time when the San Francisco Examiner was cast off the doorsteps. There was a time when the whole city were drawing their patronage from day to day. You remember, it seemed as if at that very time the Call, the Chronicle and the Bulletin, wolves, fighting in packs, had a long howl sounding down the broad streets of the city and against his papers.

WHAT THE UPROAR IS ABOUT.

Let me ask you all, ladies and gentlemen, what is all this uproar about? Why is it that our unfortunate city has been treated, not to one, but to several moral earthquakes, in addition to the physical one? Why is it that we had first the scandal about reneuges? Why is it that then we are told we must have a vigilance committee? Why is it that on the eve of election, we must get a new Grand Jury? And why then, the whole country have the fiery cross sent around to, and have the telegraph wires seared with the misdeeds of the union labor people, in order that Supervisor Nicholas, we will say, may be indicted for getting away with twenty-eight dollars and sixteen cents?

We are suffering all this because the Lord, thinking that we were not punished enough with the fire and the earthquake, had to send us a commission man-made wooden Indian candidate and a Grand Jury. (Laughter.) The Lord forbid that I should say anything disrespectful of the Grand Jury. It is one of our institutions, and it is a part of the life of this city. And I say to you that it is going to have up before it next.

But I want to ask you, and I want you to ask yourselves, what is this Grand Jury? What does it mean?

DENOUNCES THE GRAND JURY.

Now, I say here with the deepest respect for the responsibility of what I am saying—say it here as an American citizen—that the Grand Jury, as it is used in California, is immoral from the upmost branch down to its lowest root. (Laughter.) I say it is an immoral thing to bring to the justice a charge against any man, no matter how slight that charge may be, without giving that man a chance to be heard in his own behalf. (Applause.)

It is the essence of human liberty. Is it not that you may defend yourself? In the olden times, before there were laws and lawyers, before there were courts and juries, every free man carried his sword, every free man carried his bow, every free man carried his club. To be able to carry arms was the sign of a freeman. The difference between a freeman and a slave was this, that a slave had no arms with which to defend himself, while the freeman had, and could defend himself.

When, in the course of time, states began to evolve, and it was found better to put the defense of the citizen in the law, to hand it over to the soldier, or to hand it over to the policeman, the freeman laid by his material arms, but he held that which is greater than pistol or saber, greater than gun or cannon—the right to speak a word in his own behalf. (Applause.)

If there be any country in the world today where a man, no matter how poor he is, can be accused of crime, and is not given the right to answer it on the spot, I say that country has fallen from the state of freedom. And if in California today men are haled before the Grand Jury, men of all kinds and of all classes, if they can go down into the stums of a city as slummy as this, if they can, with their muck rakes, pull up people from the lowest of the lowest classes of society, and if, on the words of men infamous in business, infamous in name, infamous in word, they can splower with dirt the fair name of a man ten thousand miles away, then I say to you the star that marks California upon that flag has paled and has lost its luster. (Applause.)

SWEATING WITNESSES DENOUNCED.

The Grand Jury as used in the olden times in America was something which was in its way at least not harmful. But like everything else, the new use of the Grand Jury was discovered by the press. (Laughter.) And it was discovered not by the daily press, but by the magazine writers who have been industriously engaged for the last three or four years with a big swab and a pot of tar in trying to cleanse the moral life of America.

They found out that there was a provision by which men could be called before the Grand Jury, and by which they could be sweated. That

MAYOR SCHMITZ.

MAYOR SCHMITZ TO THE PEOPLE

TO THE PEOPLE OF SAN FRANCISCO: You have thrice honored me with your confidence and support in electing me to the highest position in the gift of the people of our city. I wish to state that my return home has been with all possible speed to face my traducers and the charges that have been so unjustly made against me. I court the fullest inquiry into all of my official actions, feeling with a confidence born of a clear conscience no fear of the result of such investigation.

I ask you to reserve your decision regarding the dastardly statements that have been made against me by newspapers, avowedly hostile to my administration until such time as I shall have been given a fair chance of demonstrating these charges to be not only false and malicious, but actuated with a view of discrediting me for political purposes with the people of San Francisco.

E. E. SCHMITZ,

Mayor of San Francisco.

THEY DID NOT MUTINY NO CARDINALS, IS DECISION

Captain Perry of the Battleship Tennessee Says Reports Are Untrue.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—Captain Albert G. Perry, commander of the United States battleship Tennessee, today characterized as absolutely false the story that the members of his crew had mutinied against an order calling for a four hours' run under forced draught while the ship was bound for Hawaii.

"We have a splendid crew," said Captain Perry, "and such a story does the ship and the sea good harm."

He said that if you have a District Attorney, or a deputy who is persistent enough or malevolent enough to be able to browbeat the 19 men that you find in there, who are usually nineteen weak, oh, very weak sailors (laughter), and can frighten those witnesses into perjury and those witnesses into contradictions, and testify with a direct witness by threatening him with indictment for perjury, that they will be able to scrape up a case against some man against whom they have a political or personal grievance. Ladies and gentlemen, I now say to you again that the use of the Grand Jury for political purposes, even though it be on the face of it for the purpose of cleansing the city, is a crime against the blood and against the treasure represented by that American flag and shed in the sacred cause of liberty. (Applause.)

OBJECT OF THE CRUSADE.

Could you imagine any city fallen so low that it would be governed by a de Young or a Spreckels or a Hearst. (Applause.) There may be a government in Hell, for all I know, but this I know, that Hell's stomach would turn if it was asked to take the Bulletin for Mayor. (Laughter.)

Let me tell you that there is no small politics in this. Let me tell you that this Grand Jury, though you may think it was got together for the purpose of electing men or defeating the other, was not. There are depths calling unto depths in this present agitation. This Grand Jury is not got up in a worse position than they were on the day when you entered upon the duties of the Mayor's office. (Applause.)

And it is because I believe that through Mayor Schmitz today they are striking at the unions I come to inquire and beseech you Union Labor men and Union Labor women to stand shoulder to shoulder, knee to knee, and to tell those who have tried to buy you and who have tried to frighten you and who have tried to beat you down by open force that now they cannot get you to give up this thing, they cannot destroy you for the purpose of breaking down your solidarity, for the purpose of leaving you weakened and disunited before the great plundering league that would fatten upon the remains of San Francisco.

Several American Bishops Will Be Recognized In Consistory.

ROME, Nov. 29.—The Pope today gave the last instruction regarding the consistory which is to be held December 6, at which he will deliver an allocution, the subject of which has not yet been definitely decided upon.

No cardinals will be created at the consistory, but many bishops, including several Americans who have already been appointed by the Congregation of the Propaganda, will be recognized.

And union against union and sweep down on you when you are demoralized. If you had not flocked here and to the ferry to greet your mayor, tomorrow would see the end of union labor here.

STRIKING AT THE UNIONS.

"I have already said that I am under no obligations to Mayor Schmitz. I may be conceded if I say it, but Mayor Schmitz is under far more obligations to me. I have never asked him for anything for me or for mine. Only one thing I have asked him for. I asked him for the first time I met him after his election, I asked for the last time I saw before the great earthquake had hardly passed away, and that was: I do not care what your political appointments are or what your political tactics are, that is a matter of politics, and I do not claim to be a politician, but one thing I do demand of you and one thing I will hold you accountable for, and that is that when the term of your office comes to an end the unions of this city must not be in a worse position than they were on the day when you entered upon the duties of the Mayor's office. (Applause.)

MAYOR STATES HE IS READY FOR BATTLE

San Francisco's Executive Requests the People to Withhold Judgment of Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Tired from a tedious journey, fagged by his race to return to face unproven charges of malfeasance, Mayor Schmitz stepped from the Oakland ferry this morning at 12:10 and after receiving cheery greeting from a throng of friends at the ferry hastened in an automobile to Dreamland Pavilion where a great ovation was accorded him.

The Mayor's party consisted of his wife, who like her husband evidenced signs of fatigue and worry incident to travel and trouble, Abe Ruef, Fred Hilbert and wife and Myrtle Cerf. Following the party was Deputy Sheriff Harry Knox, the man who placed the Mayor under arrest at Truckee.

Though accompanied by an imposing array of detectives the returning chief executive was not under surveillance as a bond for $25,000 assuring his appearance for trial had been supplied prior to his entrance into his native city after two months' absence.

Assembled in Dreamland Pavilion was a throng which had waited patiently for Mayor Schmitz's appearance through the five hours' tardiness of the train on which the Mayor returned.

When Schmitz, ever stately, accompanied by his worried and fatigued wife, entered the pavilion the crowd rose to its feet as one and cheered lustily.

Women of the throng waved flags and handkerchiefs and joined the men in their loud hurrahs bespeaking welcome and trust.

On the pavilion stage sat a number of the Mayor's friends, including the Rev. Peter C. Yorke, who before the close of the meeting championed the cause of the accused Mayor in the interest of "fair play" and our boasted "liberty."

The Mayor, greatly affected by the open-armed welcome given him, addressed his receivers feelingly and appealed to them to bide their time before pronouncing judgment.

The few words of the official were interrupted frequently by wild applause, particularly when mention was made by the speaker of the press' reference to him and his administration.

As her husband addressed the crowd, Mrs. Schmitz sat at the table by his side, giving to the reception a pathetic, which brought tears from the eyes of many.

Closing his remarks the Mayor gave his audience a fervent "God Bless You" and, accompanied by his wife, left the pavilion amidst a burst of cheers which was prolonged until he had entered the automobile.

THE MAYOR'S SPEECH.

When the first cheers of welcome had subsided, Mayor Schmitz spoke as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, Reverend Father Yorke, Ladies and Gentlemen and Friends: I can hardly express in words just how grateful I feel to you here tonight, giving me this reception after having been so maligned by the worst set of newspapers that any city was ever cursed with. It has been said that I fled my native city because I was afraid to face her people. But I am here, back again, home, to face my traducers and to help them go to the bottom of any investigation of all my official acts, for I fear no investigation, as I am firm in the conviction of a clear conscience. (Great applause.)

"This attack, which was made a few not gotten up in a few weeks or a few months. I heard of the combination last February—that unholy combination between the Bulletin and the Examiner. I knew perfectly well that Mr. Burns had taken a vacation from Washington and had come out here to find something that he could lay against the administration. Therefore I was forewarned if I had anything to conceal. But after the catastrophe of April 18 their vindictiveness for a time died, their thirst for revenge melted a little because of the feeling of self-preservation and the feeling of protecting their wealth was foremost before them. (Applause.)

"I am no physical coward nor am I a moral coward. I am here, as I said in my opening remarks, to face my traducers, here to face any charge that they can bring against me. But I come back to no revenge in my heart. I want to say that I hope no man of that grand jury who indicted me after a few hours' investigation will ever have to go through what I had to go through when I arrived upon the dock at New York, and what I and my family have had to go through since that time. That is all I wish them, that they may never be placed in that position.

But notwithstanding that, I want to say that I have come back in a fighting attitude. (Applause.) And I say to you newspaper men here—and I do not blame you boys because you are only earning your living—that you may take back to your proprietors the information that this is a fight, that I want no quarter and I am going to give no quarter. (Applause.)

Ladies and gentlemen, for three terms I have stood as the standard-bearer of the Union Labor party, represented by the best element of wage-earners in this community. I have been proud of that fact. I am proud now and pleased to come back as their representative, and if needs be, suffer every degradation, because I realize that this is not a fight against me personally, it is a fight made in order that if they may down me or discredit me in the eyes of this world they can then easier take union by union, man by man, disrupt them and conquer them and get labor at whatever price they may want to pay for it. (Applause.)

I am not going to address you very long. As you can well understand, I have hurried back here and have had no time for any rest. I want to say before I close, however, that the harm these newspapers are doing San Francisco and the harm they have done our fair city will take many years in order to right again. They do not seem to appreciate that. After April 18 I had some hope that all elements, all classes, all kinds of men would stand shoulder to shoulder in order to reconstitute the city that lies bleeding at our feet. But no. The feeling of revenge has sprung up again, and I feel now that the fight must be made, and made it will be. (Applause.)

I thank you, ladies and gentlemen, for this kind reception. I thank you for the confidence you have had in me. And, Father Yorke, I thank you for voluntarily taking up this cause, and I say "God bless you" with all my heart. (Applause.)

I stand before you people tonight, and if you look into my face, believing you are looking into a dishonest face, go forth from this hall and have nothing more to do with me. But if you believe in my honesty and integrity, I ask you, and through you the people of San Francisco, to withhold their judgment until these cases are tried and until I have an opportunity of demonstrating to you all that dirty politics is behind this, and that a conspiracy almost unheard of has been entered into by these newspapers, for which, I believe, talking of a Vigilance Committee, we will perhaps have to organize to take care of them.

In behalf of my wife, who sits here, and of my children, whom I have not seen yet, and myself, I thank you again sincerely. God bless you all! (Applause and wild demonstration.)

USES PENKNIFE TO OPEN MAN'S THROAT

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Dr. P. J. Barry of 137 East Forty-ninth street last night performed a quick operation upon the throat of George Becker, 28 years old, with a penknife in an effort to save the man's life. Becker was a bartender. For eight months he had been suffering from a tumor in the throat, being unable to speak above a whisper. Last night in an insurance office he was talking with Dr. Barry's office. He had stopped breathing.

With no other instrument than a penknife at his disposal, the physician made an incision in Becker's throat and inserted a tube. He started artificial respiration, but after a few minutes the lungs became clogged and Becker died.

The trail of blood led to Twelfth and Franklin streets. He was taken to the Receiving hospital.

WESTERN PACIFIC SUES OAKLAND EQUITABLE

Western Pacific Company filed suit last evening making defendants of Oakland Equitable Gas Company, Southern Pacific (as a corporation), Edison Adams, Ashjburg Russell, and others.

Fight in this suit will be as bitter as it is possible for the better corporation lawyers concerned to make it. Real contention is over industrial trucks, and the suit brought is to compel, if possible, compliance with the S. P. action of Monday before the Supervisors.

WILL TEST THEIR TALENT IN "THE EMERYVILLE RINGER"

Miss ELMA E. EDWARDS, who will play prominent part in Junior Farce.

The Junior Farce of This Year Will Be Presented at Ye Liberty Theater Tomorrow Afternoon.

BERKELEY, Nov. 29.—The dramatic talent of the Junior class of the University of California will be put to a test Friday afternoon when "The Emeryville Ringer," the junior farce of this year, is presented at Ye Liberty Theater. The farce itself was written by D. L. Levy and the main plot is concerned with the adventures of a race-track habitue, who is wanted for having entered "The Emeryville Ringer," or in other words, put a horse in a race under a false name and pedigree, which constitutes a State's prison offense. He flees to a summer resort where he is engaged in many amusing complications with a party of Eastern tourists, before his arrest.

The cast of the farce is as follows: Willie Twotem, Samuel J. Hume; Frank Alderson, Carl Whitmore; Robert Collier, George W. Nickel; Count Calhoun, Van V. Phinney; Jack Dorian, Harold K. Baxter; Jonathan Sedgewick, Thomas A. Thomson; William W. Smith, Henry M. Isaacs; Sam (bell boy), Simon Casady; Mrs. William F. Smith, Edna E. Edwards; Evelyn Randolph, Marguerite Daniels; Clementina Dodge, Julia Evans; Kate Merriman, Inez McCall; Mabel Booth, Margaret Hayne; Ruth Brown, Maud Scott; Ethel Warren, Selma Werner.

The curtain raiser is the work of Miss Julia Evans, and is entitled "Pelican's Daughter." The scene is the University campus and concerns the actions of the proverbial "pelican." The heroine is the daughter of one of the true "pelicans" type. The mother announces to a crowd of college men that her daughter is about to arrive in Berkeley to attend college, and asks them to go to meet her at the train. They, imagining the daughter to be of the same type as her mother, refuse to do so. The humor of the sketch lies in their consternation when they discover that the "Pelican's Daughter" is one of the prettiest girls in the freshman class.

The cast of the curtain raiser is as follows: Mrs. Dobbins (pelican), Ida M. Cowley; Daphne (her daughter), Edith G. Ostrander; Jack Knox, David L. Levy; Bob White, Adolph H. Levy; Tom Brown, Philip Stafford; Ethel Bright, Helen I. Eschenberg; Dorothy Dow, Loretta Weir; Jane Jones, Grace Derby; Mabel Mite, Nora Evans.

GRANT'S OLD HOME MECCA FOR VISITORS

GALENA, Nov. 29.—The visitors' register book kept at General Grant's old home in this city shows the number of visitors to the past year exceeds that of all other years since it was turned into a public memorial home.

Captain J. W. Fisher, a veteran pilot of the Mississippi river, now retired, is the custodian of the home, and is neatness with which the place is kept, which has a peculiar interest to the visitor, and everything seen is an inspiration, and gives the visitor a fuller realization of the character and eminence of the great soldier-president.

The photographs of members of the Grant family are shown. The father and mother, attired in the quaint garments of the pioneer era in Illinois are of deep interest. Visitors are fond of tracing the resemblance between Grant and his mother. There are numerous pictures of the general, taken at all ages, and also while he was in public life. Those taken during the war attract the greatest attention, however.

An excellent portrait of Nellie Grant Sartoris, daughter of the general, whose unhappy marriage so affected the young woman's father, is also an object of interest. There is no picture of Sartoris. The homestead, thanks to the great care it has received, is in an excellent state of preservation, and barring destruction by fire, will probably be standing for many decades. It is probably safe to predict that the place will attract tourists for many years to come.

COFFEE SLAVES

Thousands of Persons Don't Know Why They Are Miserable.

Most of our troubles come from what we eat and drink.

Even bad habits seem to become more respectable with age. The coffee habit has an ancient pedigree but it is none the less disastrous to many.

"During the five years before I was married," writes a California school teacher, "I became a slave to coffee."

"I became a nervous wreck and my stomach was almost ruined. My food would not digest. I suffered great pain after eating, and could not sleep an entire night through. My whole system seemed to be poisoned."

"After my marriage I still used coffee and steadily grew worse. About six years ago my father, who had been at a sanitarium where they used Postum food coffee, spoke so often and in such glowing terms of it, my husband and I decided to try it. I have been gradually but surely cured by its use and never felt so well in my life."

"We still use Postum, giving it to our two little boys who always beg for it, and we think the day's wrongly begun without it for breakfast."

"Am able to eat anything I like and can sleep soundly all the night through." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pgs. "There's a reason."

ANCESTRAL HISTORY OF THE ELEPHANT

"The ancestral history of that largest and most interesting of terrestrial beasts, the elephant." Thus Professor Ray Lankester last night introduced his audience at the London institution to a wonderful collection of lantern slides, illustrative of the elephant's evolution from the ancient mammoths and mastodons. Some of the skeletons reproduced on the screen had been unearthed in Great Britain.

Prof. Ray Lankester was particularly interesting on the subject of the elephant's trunk. A picture of a long-jawed mastodon skeleton from Central France was shown, and a soft, long upper lip resting on the long lower jaw was pointed out as corresponding to the trunk of the modern elephant.

"The elephant's trunk," said the lecturer, "originated through a shortening of the lower jaw. Therefore, I am sorry to upset Mr. Rudyard Kipling's explanation that the length of the trunk was accounted for by its having been pulled by the crocodile."

A picture of a tapir, with its long proboscis resting on and drooping over the end of its lower jaw, was shown as an example of what was probably one stage of the elephant's trunk; and remarking upon this, the professor said: "The tendency in modern times has been the general bulldozing of the elephant's head. Thus its lower jaw has receded and its upper lip has grown and drooped into the familiar trunk."

A lantern slide of the largest elephant tusk on record, weighing 228 lbs., and measuring 19½ feet long, was shown by Prof. Lankester.

TODAY

Is the day you are expected to take an inventory of all your blessings, local, State, and national, to cast out all pessimistic notions or hard luck stories—and go to church. Some men never attend church excepting at Easter, but I think it is a good habit to add Thanksgiving and Christmas Days to your regularity. Let us be thankful in any event that we are alive and kicking (of course) and that Oakland is forging to the front as fast as you can fairly see the sparks a flying. Be thankful for Lehnhardt's, for I know towns larger than this that haven't nearly so nice a sweetmeats bazaar as Lehn's.

MINISTER SAYS SMART SET OF DENVER IS BAD

Clergyman Positively Declares That He Can Prove Its Members Drink and Gamble.

DENVER, Nov. 29.—Denver's Woman's club has it in for Dr. Robert F. Coyle, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, on account of his sermon, "The Sins of Smart Society," in which he charged the women in the fashionable set with being addicted to drinking and gambling.

"It is one thing to think a thing and another to prove it," said Mrs. Luther M. Goddard, president of the Woman's club, "and I feel that the hour has arrived when Denver women may call for vindication."

"I can prove the statements I made in the sermon," says Dr. Coyle. "Those statements were not made on hearsay testimony, but from my positive knowledge of the evils."

"When did you secure this knowledge?" he was asked, and he replied, "I learned of the prevalence of the drinking vice among women of the smart set by personal observation. I have been frequently embarrassed in visiting the homes of women in Denver's exclusive circles by the evidences of intemperance."

"What about your reference to gambling?" Dr. Coyle was asked.

"Why, do you know that since delivering my sermon I have secured additional evidence on this point?" was the reply.

"Women have come to me aggrieved at the imputations made. They have gone away admitting that they play cards for small stakes. Even if the stakes played for were less than a quarter, that is gambling, isn't it?"

Dr. Coyle also said:

"If the physicians of Denver would talk they could tell a story that would need no spice to give it the desired sensationalism."

Dr. Coyle spoke of the bad example Denver mothers were giving to their sons by dallying long hours at the gaming table. He spoke in a general way of the advance of gambling, from the euchre and decorated china plate stage, to that of bridge with money the stake.

Whether the women will permit the matter to rest here, or whether they will assert the prerogative that has been woman's since Eve was the sole representative of the sex—the right to have the last word—is a question that may remain in abeyance until the Woman's club is called together for its next meeting.

WOMAN FELS WIFE-BEATER

She Stops Drunkard and Two Men Who Would Interfere.

OMAHA, Nov. 28.—While Robert McMann was beating his wife on a side street, Mrs. Winnie Palmer stepped up, knocked McMann down twice, and when two bystanders attempted to interfere she knocked them both down. Somebody called for the police, and when the patrol wagon arrived the three men were arrested and fined.

McMann was drunk and was beating his wife, while seven men looked on. Mrs. Palmer came walking down the street.

"You brutes, to stand there and see a drunken man beat a sick woman!" she cried. Then she made a rush for McMann.

SHE DREAMED WHEN SHE WED

Woman Asks Divorce Saying She Was Subconscious at the Ceremony.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28.—As counter suit to that of her husband against her parents for $10,000 damages for alienation of her affections, Mrs. Iva Warren McDonald, of Cleveland, who married him two years ago in London, Canada, sues for divorce.

Judge Phillips, of Cleveland, heard the divorce case, which was not contested, but refused to grant her a bill, on the ground that they had not been living together long enough for him to find out which was to blame. The girl claimed in her petition that she married McDonald in a dream, that she never entertained any regard, much less love, for him, and that she was subconscious for five days, or until her mother arrived in Canada.

WHAT SOVEREIGNS SMOKE. There is only one reigning sovereign who does not smoke at all, and that is King Oscar of Sweden; but the greatest smokers are King Edward, who smokes the very best cigars, and King Leopold of Belgium, who smokes not fewer than a dozen cigars a day. The emperor of Austria smokes a pipe morning and evening, but the other sovereigns are contented with cigarettes, the czar consuming about thirty a day.

A MOTHER JAILS BIG SONS AS DRUNKS

She Marches Them Separately to Police Station.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 28.—Mrs. William Male talked to her two boys—William and Charles—down by the spring. "Piped little Mary Logan, as she ran into the house and dropped something in about intemperance, but it did no good. Then forbearance ceased. To be a virtue, and Mrs. Male took matters in her own hands. When Charles, who is 40, came home intoxicated again on Thursday night, she quietly seized him, and, much against his protests, marched him off to the South Side police station, where she ordered him locked up. Charles promised to swear off drinking, but the mother said the limit had been reached and refused to listen. An hour afterward Mrs. Male again returned to the station house, this time escorting her son William, 42 years old. William was also drunk, and protesting. "I'll appear against them both in the morning," said Mrs. Male as she left. She was as good as her word. Magistrate Kinnell fined the brothers each $10 and costs, and in default of fines sent them to the workhouse.

LIVE WOMAN IS BURIED IN GRAVE

JAMAICA HYPNOTIST REFUSES TO DISINTER WIFE WHEN ORDERED TO DO SO.

She Placed Herself in Coffin and Submitted to Husband's Will.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 29.—"Professor" W. A. Barclay, a colored hypnotist, hypnotized his wife and in the presence of a large gathering of the public, buried her in a coffin under eight feet of earth. The "professor" announced that he would leave his wife buried for six days. After digging her up again and reviving her, he declared she would be as fit and well as before burial. The ceremony took place at Rockport Gardens. The grave was already dug when the "professor" and his wife arrived, and the coffin placed by its side. Mrs. Barclay stepped into the coffin, lay out at full length, and closed her eyes peacefully. "Professor" Barclay, after making passes over his wife's head, announced that she was hypnotized and ready for burial. The coffin lid was then fastened down, and the coffin was lowered into the grave. The earth was then piled on the coffin to a depth of eight feet. Barclay assured the people that his wife was not in the slightest degree affected by the burial, and suffered no discomfort; in fact, he said, she was much better off than a good many who were walking on the earth. When the full details of the burial became known a storm of protest was raised in Kingston. Mr. Foster Davis, who has control of Rockport Gardens, sent a letter to Barclay declaring that he had no idea of the realistic character of the performance, and adding: "In these circumstances I must ask you to be good enough to make arrangements to disinter your wife this evening."

Barclay, on receiving the letter, replied that he had pledged his word to the public that he would bury his wife alive for six days, and he did not mean to break it. The matter, therefore, remains at a complete standstill. The "professor" will not unbury his wife, and the authorities fear to do so owing to the possible consequences of removal.

TAKES 1 VACATION IN 48 YEARS

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 28.—After a service of almost half a century in the employ of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, L. T. Graham, agent for that company at Central, has been granted, and Mr. Graham has entered upon the enjoyment of a three weeks' leave of absence from his duties, which he will spend seeing the beauties of nature in the far west.

Mr. Graham entered the employ of the company soon after the completion of the road, in 1842. It is said that he was not anxious to take the leave of absence which had just been granted him, and would not have done so had it not been for the earnest solicitation of the members of his family. In his absence the affairs of the B. & O. at Central will be looked after by a daughter of Mr. Graham as acting agent.

SLEEP WALKING

Dangerous Habit Overcome by Change of Food.

The causes of sleep walking are various, but the sleep walker always has a disturbed nervous system. Often it is proper food, by causing indigestion and thereby poisoning the nerves through the stomach, is a cause of this trouble. A daughter for five years was troubled with indigestion which resulted in extreme nervousness, writes an Indiana mother. "She would eat heartily of meat, vegetables and pastry for a time, and then become sluggish, lose her appetite and get so nervous she could not attend to her school work. On such occasions the family doctor would call and by giving her medicine would fix her up for a while, only to have the old trouble come back in three or four weeks. "She would walk in her sleep sometimes when her nerves were greatly disturbed by indigestion. We were very much alarmed, and usually had some kind of cereal and for a change got some Grape-Nuts. We all took to the new food, my daughter became so very fond of it she often made her breakfast on Grape-Nuts, exclusive of anything else, sometimes also for lunch. "We soon noticed a marked change in her nerves, she ceased to walk in her sleep and had no trouble with her stomach. We were confident the Grape-Nuts had brought about the happy change, and continued to use it, so that after more than a year she is a rosy, robust girl full of animation, strong and well. Name given by Postum Co., Hattie Creek, N. H. where's in reason."

LASS TOYS WITH BIG RATTLE SNAKE

Little Mary Logan Drops Frozen Serpent Into Her Mother's Lap.

SHARON, Pa., Nov. 28.—Oh, mamma, see what I have found! "down by the spring!" piped little Mary Logan, as she ran into the house and dropped something in Mrs. Logan's lap yesterday. Mrs. Logan looked down, and what she saw caused her to fall in a faint. For a live rattlesnake, almost stiff with the cold, crawled from her lap and went under the stove. When Mrs. Logan recovered her 3-year-old daughter was dragging the snake about the room by the neck. The woman killed the reptile. All that saved the child from being bitten was the fact that the snake was almost frozen.

IN SHADOW OF NOOSE HE WILL WED

PRISONER WILL MARRY WOMAN WHO ADMIRES HIS BOLDNESS.

Fiancee Is Suspected of Being an Accomplice to Murder He Committed.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Andre Negro, who is under sentence of death in a Paris prison is, with the permission of the authorities, shortly to become a bridegroom. While being tried for burglary he attempted to kill the warder conducting him from the court to the prison van, and for this he was on September 12 last sentenced to death at the Seine assizes.

He declined to petition the President for a reprieve, but shortly after his sentence applied to be allowed to marry the woman with whom he had been living, Eugenie Bosbecq. She was suspected of having handed him the knife with which he tried to kill the warder. The marriage is to take place in a few days.

It is stated that Negro, while in prison, has received a number of letters couched in very warm terms from another woman, who says that she admires his boldness in trying to kill the warder. This and his courageous attitude in court had attracted her toward him, and she asked him to marry her.

MARRIED AND SECURED THE POCKETBOOK

The late Major Mawdsley Best, of Boxley, near Maidstone, who died recently bequeathed $75,000 to his cousin and niece on condition that they were married within one year from last July.

The wedding took place yesterday in Boxley church, and naturally excited considerable interest, as the terms of the will were well known. Flags were freely displayed, and a triumphant march was led by the villagers.

The bridegroom was Richard M. Best, grandson of the late Colonel Best, of the Cameron Highlanders, and the bride Miss Annie Maria Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Best afterwards left for London on their way to Cyprus, where the honeymoon is to be spent.

"What did you call Mrs. Allison?" "Mrs. Newman-Mrs. Allison."

"Q—Ever call her Katherine?"

A—Yes.

"Q—What did your baby, D'Arcy, call her?"

A—Katherine; or as near as he could get.

"Q—What did he call Mrs. Avant?"

A—"Tinkey."

"Q—That's what you all called Mrs. Avant, isn't it?"

A—Yes; after the baby gave her that name.

"Q—Baby prayed for 'Tinkey' and 'Katherine' every night, didn't he?"

A—No, he didn't. (The witness paused as if he had not finished and a solemn hush spread over the courtroom.) I'll tell you what he did say in his prayers, just at the close, if you'd like to know.

"Go on," said Attorney Meyer.

"Dod bless faver and everybody."

"And no word for mamma!" thundered the cross-examiner, at which handkerchiefs went to the eyes of every woman in the room, including Mrs. Allison.

"No," came Van Alstyne's answer, in a cold, dry tone. "No mention of mamma."

"Q—You took him with you when you left Mrs. Van Alstyne and took him to that house in Thirty-third street, where lived the woman you had met in Salt Lake City the year before and never tried to find Mrs. Calhoun and place him in her charge?"

A—I did not know where she was.

"Q—Did you know that Mrs. Calhoun was living in the Avery apartments?"

A—No.

"Q—How does it happen that you fix it in your mind that every time you called on Mrs. Allison there was somebody with you?"

A—Why, I was a married man and I had some regard for appearances.

A—Now, why, if you owed her nothing, did you give even $25 to Mrs. Rice on her demand?

A—Because I was trying to show up the other party.

TAKES BOX CAR TO VISIT HER GRANDMA

Lass Braves Perils to Call on Her Father's Mother.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Nov. 29.—Edith Harris, aged ten, daughter of Edward Harris, wept when her father failed to keep his promise of taking her with him to see her grandmother at McGregor. Not to be thwarted in her desire to visit her favorite grandparent, she secreted herself in a boxcar while a freight train was unloading. When the freight reached Clay-ton, Iowa, she was hungry and blue with the cold. She jumped from the boxcar and started to walk ten miles to McGregor. By this time her absence from home had been noticed, and several playmates told the parents about Edith. All stations were notified to look for the child. She had already walked part of the way to McGregor when a handcar, filled with pursuers, hove in sight. She scampered for the woods, thinking the men were tramps. A search was made, but the child could not be found. About 2 o'clock in the morning the child turned up at the McGregor Depot nearly exhausted, but all right, and the news that she had been found was wired to her anxious parents.

BABY DID NOT PRAY FOR MAMMA

"DOD BLESS FAVER AND EVERYBODY" APPEAL OF PRETTY CHILD.

Little One Did Not Know Her Mother—She Called Caretaker "Tinkey."

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Maurice Meyer went at Guy C. Van Alstyne, the banker defendant in the divorce suit of Isabelle Van Alstyne, with a peppery fire of questions, before Judge Leventritt and a jury in the supreme court.

"What did you call Mrs. Allison?" "Mrs. Newman-Mrs. Allison."

"GOD FORBID!" THEY SAY OF TRIAL MARRIAGES

Theory Advocated by Mrs. Elsie Clews Parsons Shocks Clergy and Laity.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—A storm of indignant protest met the announcement that Mrs. Elsie Clews Parsons was the writer of a book advocating limited marriages for the purpose of permitting couples to determine whether they are fitted to spend a lifetime together. Interviews with prominent women, men of letters and members of the clergy resulted in the same answer, "God forbid!"

The Rev. Dr. J. E. Gilbert of Washington, chairman of the committee on Eugenics, telegraphed, in reply to a dispatch:

"The suggestion of marriage on probation, made by Mrs. Parsons, is shocking, heathenish, disgusting and coming from a woman, disgraceful. If practiced in this country, it would prove subversive to our civilization, bringing evil results, such as appear in certain half-civilized countries where it has been tried. The American people will never legalize this system. They will repudiate any legislator who may propose it."

Mrs. Parsons lives at 112 East Thirty-fifth street. She is the wife of Herbert Parsons, chairman of the Republican county committee, and a daughter of Henry Clews, the banker. She is a doctor of philosophy, a Hartley House Fellow and for six years was a lecturer on sociology in Barnard college. Unconscious of the stir her book has created, Mrs. Parsons left her house early this morning and went to Washington, where she will stay for the winter.

The French Restaurant Graft.

Mayor Schmitz made a strong point when he said the French restaurants were in San Francisco before he came and would be there long after he was dead. The character of the restaurants called French to indicate the type of the resort rather than the nationality of the keeper has not changed since the Schmitz regime came into power. The places themselves have not become better or worse and their peculiar features were the same under the Schmitz administration as they were under Phelan and as they have been for two generations.

As the Schmitz administration did not bring into being the French restaurants nor degrade their character, it can only be charged with one thing in this connection—namely, permitting the resorts to be run as they had been run for fifty years in technical violation of the law. That public sentiment condoned the laxity cannot be denied. That leading officials, financiers, merchants and pillars of society generally patronized the French restaurants well knowing their character and the peculiar conveniences they afforded is notorious. Therefore it cannot be said that either the public or the officials were ignorant of the nameless function and peculiar atmosphere of these resorts prior to the accession of Schmitz to the mayoralty. Certainly the proprietors and editors of the San Francisco newspapers were fully informed on the subject.

After Schmitz had been elected the second time the political enemies of his administration charged him with protecting the French restaurants. As the restaurants had been running ever since San Francisco was a city, unchanged in character and the essentials which gave them peculiar distinction, the charge had little candor or sincerity in it. The very men who brought it were frequently to be seen in the resorts they denounced. Nevertheless, an aggressive moral sentiment in the churches, incited and spurred on by the newspapers, took the matter up and the pulpit resounded with denunciation of the French restaurants as "dens of vice" and the Schmitz administration as being responsible for them.

Anybody might have foreseen the result. The Police Commission grew suddenly sensitive, and the subordinates of the department began to manifest unwonted vigilance and to be captiously inquiring. Patrons became annoyed. The proprietors took alarm. They wanted to be let alone and their customers freed from espionage. They were willing to pay for the immunity. Common report fixed upon Abe Ruef as the man for their money. The restaurant proprietors raised a fund to employ him—not to defend them in court or to render any public legal service—but to arrange matters in his own way so they could continue to conduct their business undisturbed as they had in the past. They groaned in spirit over having to pay this money, but they willingly paid it in preference to being compelled to conduct their places as ordinary eating houses.

This is an accurate outline of the French restaurant graft proposition. The subject is not a savory one, but since so much has been said about it the plain truth is in order. There was no grafting on the French restaurateurs till the newspapers and the clergy flushed and drove the game, and there was only one man to whom it could fly for protection. Stripping the matter down to the bare facts, the utmost that can be charged is that the French restaurants paid Ruef for the privilege of conducting their business illegally when they had previously been allowed to do so without paying anything. But there is abundant reason to believe that the proprietors of these places have in times past paid for immunity from police surveillance and interference. The "dens of vice," as the clergy term them, were allowed to run undisturbed when Phelan was Mayor. They were undisturbed during the Sanderson, Pond, Bartlett and other administrations usually denominated high class. Mayor Schmitz is no more responsible for them than were his predecessors.

"Abe keeps all he gets," said Mayor Schmitz. That does not square with Ruef's assertion that he frequently gave Supervisors money out of his own pocket to fortify them against accepting bribes.

An evening paper quotes Chief of Police Wilson as saying that the lewd and obscene postal cards, displayed in the windows of certain establishments are "all right." The chief stated to THE TRIBUNE that they are all wrong. However, the cards speak for themselves. They carry their own moral of depravity, and any person can see at a glance their vicious character. We trust Chief Wilson has been misquoted, but if he has not his ideas of morality are as peculiar as his regard for his word. If the display and circulation of these cards are not in violation of law they certainly are a violation of decency.

A Gotham paper says "the Platt scandal is a disgrace to New York." Which one? The country has recently been edified by the domestic inharmonies of Senator Platt and also by the attempt of another dotard of the same name who attempted to recover by law the fortune he had given a negro strumpet.

An old maid keeps the only vacant lot on Fifth avenue, New York, for which she has been offered $650,000 as a place for exercising her pet poodle. If it were an Indian reservation the government would take it away from her.

It is estimated that the wealth of the United States has increased $41,000,000,000 in the last sixteen years. The popular belief is that Rockefeller got more of the increase than he was entitled to.

Some horse "experts" are saying that the twenty-seven horses Homer Davenport recently brought from Arabia are not Arab horses at all. They must have been looking at Mr. Davenport's drawings of the animals. If they have they are to be pardoned if they mistook the steeds for dromedaries.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says a Kentucky man found a $250 pearl in a mussel with which he was baiting his hook. This looks like a shrewd excuse for bait fishing.

Apparently the Springfield Republican believes the treaty-making power can abolish the constitutional rights of the States. It is not surprising that this view should be prompted by the establishment of separate schools for Orientals. The habit of managing the concerns of other people is so ingrained in this fine old newspaper that it is ready at all times to take up arms for Mongolians against the people of the Pacific Coast. "To hell with the law," says Tillman when he desires to deprive the colored people of their legal rights. "To hell with the Constitution!" figuratively exclaims the esteemed Republican when it desires to force its pet theories on other people. But New England is not giving the law to the Pacific Coast just now, thank heaven.

British Lords and Education.

The emasculation by the House of Lords of the education bill, passed by the House of Commons, is exciting a feeling of intense hostility toward that body throughout the United Kingdom. At the last general election the repeal of the education act of 1902, which Balfour had whipped through Parliament under the party lash, was one of the chief issues before the British people. The enormous Liberal majority returned was an emphatic expression of the popular will. The ministry introduced a bill amending the education act and eliminating its more objectionable features, and the House of Commons adopted it with the largest majority received by any government measure thus far acted upon.

Opposition to the bill in the House of Lords was anticipated, as that body contains twenty-five bishops who hold their seats as representatives of the Anglican church, every one of whom were against modifying the education act in any form that would weaken the control of the established church over the public schools. The bill has been returned to the Commons so amended by the lords as to completely destroy its purpose.

The ministry gave warning to the lords during the time that they were considering the bill that, unless they adopted it, drastic measures would have to be taken to do so. The amended bill returned to the House of Commons is represented by Campbell-Bannerman to perpetuate, "if not to extend, the grievances and wrongs fixed upon the country in 1902." He declares emphatically that the main principles on which the bill is founded shall not be tampered with, and that if an arrangement cannot be reached amicably with the lords to preserve those principles and respect the wishes of the country, other means will be employed to enforce compliance.

On previous occasions when the lords have obstinately resisted reform measures adopted by the Commons the trouble has been expeditiously corrected either by the creation of new lords in sufficient numbers to override the opposition to the government or a threat to do so. In most instances where the Commons and the lords have reached a deadlock, the threat to reform the upper house has had the desired effect. The situation at present is peculiar, however. The Conservative-Unionist majority in the House of Lords is said to be much larger than the majority which the Campbell-Bannerman ministry has in the House of Commons and the elevation of the latter to the peerage would put the ministry in jeopardy. The course which will be adopted by the government to whip the peers into line will probably be the introduction of a bill in the House of Commons for the reformation of the House of Lords. Such a bill would be giving notice to the latter that still more drastic measures would be introduced if it should continue to be obstinate. Indeed, it might be followed by a measure providing for the abolition of the upper house, which is a subject that has been frequently publicly discussed. One thing may be accepted, however, as certain: Whatever course the lords continue to follow the House of Commons is sure to triumph finally.

A FROMAGE FANTASY.

A tiny bit of Camembert!
What strange illusions linger there!
What visions direful and distress
Thru hours that should be sweet with rest!

Who'd think that 'neath your creamy guise
The sting of nitric acid lies
Or that you could such pictures draw
More strange than Dante ever saw.

As mildly white as melting snow
You are, alas to those who know
More potent than the weirdest drop
That ever left a chemist's shop.

Compared with you how trifling seems
The source of Monte Cristo's dreams.
Both hemp and poppy fail to share
Your mystic might, oh, Camembert.

NO WONDER HE FOUND IT.

The papers relate it as a remarkable fact that Frank Bookwalter of Springfield, O., returned to his childhood's home after an absence of sixty-five years and found a dime that he had lost in a crack in the front steps when he was five years old.

There is nothing remarkable in this story. Mr. Bookwalter is described as a millionaire. After sixty-five years' experience in picking up money, it would have been a wonder if he had not found his boyhood dime, especially as he knew where it was.

If the lost dime had been Mr. Rockefeller's he would have found a dollar. Mr. Rockefeller's money breeds.—Life

THE PEACOCK'S VOICE.

She was a very beautiful woman and she was very beautifully dressed. She entered a Randolph street theater at last Saturday's matinee with a woman friend and handed her seat checks to an usher. As she swished and frou-froued down the aisle she appeared a personification of all that is exquisite.

The usher, the beauty and the friend arrived at the fourth row from the footlights. The usher turned down the seats and bowed low as he handed back the checks. The beauty spoke:

"Is them seats ourn?" she demanded shrilly.

The usher did not wince. He bowed thrice as low as before.

"Them seats is yourn," said he.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Knox—Of course. Why, they have admitted Hawkins, who is also a self-made man.

Ascum—Ah! But Hawkins was made in England.—Philadelphia Press.

THANKSGIVING BRIDES GRACE BRIGHT HOLIDAY

The Bates-Burnham Wedding Brilliant Society Event in Oakland--Thanks- giving Engage- ments Announced.

Miss Lucretia Burnham became the bride of Charles D. Bates Jr., last evening at one of the prettiest weddings of the year. The beautiful home of the bride's parents on Lake street was converted into a bower of white and gold and about one hundred guests witnessed the pretty ceremony.

The Rev. E. E. Baker read the revised Episcopal service, adopted by the last Presbyterian general assembly upon recommendation of Dr. Van Dyke, and its use at the wedding last evening was the first time it has been read on the coast.

In the drawing room, where the ceremony was performed, the bower was modeled after the old mission style, made of palms, with the bells of white tulle.

The dining room was decorated with golden fruits masses of oranges and persimmons, and small clusters of ferns and chrysanthemums.

In the reception hall bamboo and yellow chrysanthemums were used.

The bride's gown was of white ivory satin, en train, and trimmed with quantities of rose point and lace medallions. Her bouquet was of lilacs-of-the-valley, and white tulle, and her long veil was held in place by a knot of orange blossoms. A large crescent of diamonds, the gift of the groom to the bride, was her only ornament.

The bride was attended by Miss Ruth Kales as maid of honor and a pretty feature of the affair was the attendance of six ribbon bearers.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Traylor Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Moore. Each of these attractive matrons, herself a recent bride, wore her wedding gown.

PUBLIC WITH THE SINGER; CARUSO'S APPEAL WINS

Singer is Visibly Affected by Reception Accorded Him at Opera House Last Night.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Enrico Caruso last night carried his case on appeal before an audience that packed the Metropolitan opera house and won. In the great crowd that filled every seat and jammed the lobby like a 6 o'clock passenger in a subway train, none believed Caruso guilty of the misconduct for which he was lately convicted; they believed also that his voice atoned amply for any indiscretions he may have committed.

In the shouts of "bravo, bravo," that followed his every unsullied utterance, the cries of "Bis" that fell from the galleries like rain and the seven encores that succeeded the first act, there was not a hostile indication.

Caruso was visibly affected by his reception. His manager says that when it was all over he sank in a chair in his dressing room and shed tears of gratitude. It is certain that he sang as he has seldom sung before. And never did the silver voice give more golden opinions.

The glittering audience was not half seated before it was clear that there was going to be no hostility. Not one of the usual squanders of the Metropolitan was missing in the throng that streamed from the carriages in Broadway into the lobby of the opera house. Fifteen minutes before the curtain rose the orchestra and gallery showed not a gap, and rank on rank was lined up in the crescent shaped lobby.

MRS. GRAHAM FOUND. Mrs. Hannah K. Graham, who caused the arrest of Enrico Caruso, the great Italian operatic tenor, in the monkey house in Central Park was found yesterday. She proved to be Mrs. Hannah Stanhope, wife of Adam Stanhope, a ball player. She was formerly a governess in the home of Leonard Broder, a lawyer.

With her at the time of the Caruso incident she says, was Mr. Bronner's child. Mrs. Ann Graham of 1878 Eighth street, New Bronx. This was the address Mrs. Graham gave as her own the day Caruso was arrested for monkey house.

Mr. Stanhope said: "I am the mysterious Hannah Graham. I would not have my identity disclosed for a great deal."

Of her experience in the park she said: "With Mr. Bronner's little boy I went to the monkey house. I had called on the nurse and had been offered to take the child through the park. He wanted to see the monkeys."

"It was in the monkey house I first saw the foreign looking man. I did not know he was Caruso. He lies when he says that he was with him. This way I was attracted to him when I felt something pressing on my right shoulder. It was the man's elbow, and as I supposed it to have been an accident I walked away.

"The man followed me across the building and was looking into a cage after there was but one monkey when I felt the knuckles of a hand rub against me. I turned. It was the foreign looking man standing close."

FEARED NOTORIETY. "I screamed. Then the policeman came up and, opening his coat to show his shield, said: "Madam, will you make a complaint?" "No, no," I replied. "If my husband was here he would fix him."

"I insisted, the officer, 'This man has insulted other women here today and I want to lock him up. Come over to the station house, anyway.'"

Mrs. Stanhope declared that she protested against the arrest and that she had never seen Policeman Cain before in her life.

"I did not want any notoriety," she said, "and I felt sure the foreign looking man was some important person."

When the station house a man whom the officer pointed out as Captain John Stephenson said that I need not give my right name. "I guess we have this man of yours," he said, "and you need not come into court." Caruso did exactly what the police testified to in court. He got down on his knees and begged me to forgive him. He said he was Caruso, the great tenor."

"How did you come to give the name of Hannah Graham?" was asked.

"That is the name of my sister-in-law," said Mrs. Stanhope, "with my own first name. It was the truth, that she does live on Bathurst avenue with Mrs. Stanhope."

"Why did you not write a letter to Magistrate Baker, telling him about the case?" was questioned.

WANTED TO TRASH TENOR. "I was afraid to," said Mrs. Stanhope. "I told my sister-in-law, Mrs. Stanhope, and she wanted to go to the Hotel Savoy and punch the tenor. Gets Mehan, his friend had a hard time holding him in check, but both Mr. and Mrs. Stanhope finally persuaded him to let the court punish Caruso. Then there was his sister and her position as teacher in the public schools."

"Why did you not come forward to the aid of the police?" was asked.

"It was the name of Adam's was the principal reason," declared the ball player's wife. "She was opposed to my going to court, besides, she did not want to bring unpleasant notoriety to Stanhope's family. I was certain the police court could get along without me, after what Captain Stephenson said to me."

ANOTHER BIG GEM THEFT

Ten Thousand Dollars Worth of Jewelry Lifted in New York Last Night.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Ten thousand dollars' worth of jewelry was stolen last night from two boarders in the fashionable boarding house at 33 East Twenty-second street, by thieves who worked an entirely new game on the man at the door.

It was dinner time, and Mrs. Marie Hudgins, who lives in the place with her mother, and Miss Elnora had gone to the dining room when the hall boy, Julius Henry, colored, answered a call at the door. As he was about to ask the caller for his card, the telephone, which is in another room, rang. The boy excused himself to the caller and rushed to the telephone. When he returned, having answered an inquiry for someone who was not known in the house, the caller was gone. Later Miss Hudgins and Miss Elnora discovered that their rooms had been entered and jewelry valued at $10,000 stolen.

BIG CONTRACT TO CLEAR LAND. VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 29.—A contract has been entered by the Canadian Pacific Railroad with the Vancouver Island Development Company to clear 160,000 acres of land in the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway grant on Vancouver Island recently acquired by the railroad. The work will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000,000.

MANNING-ARKINSON. The marriage of Miss Maud L. Manning and Charles E. Arkinson took place last evening. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. C. Holmer of the Methodist church at his home on Chester street.

The wedding is the culmination of a college romance begun while the couple were attending the State University.

OFFICERS' HOP. The hop given for the officers of the United States steamship Charleston at the Mare Island Navy Yard was an enjoyable affair. Among the guests from this side of the bay was Miss Gertrude Russell.

Miss Eleanor Phelps, who is as great a favorite at Mare Island as she is in Oakland, has just returned to her home after a several days' visit with friends at Mare Island. During the past few weeks the naval station has been particularly gay and Miss Phelps has gone up to attend many of the affairs.

Mrs. Charles F. Pond of Mare Island had as her guests for several days last week Mrs. Shook and Miss Nelson of Berkeley and Miss Kitty Kutz of Oakland, the young ladies having gone up to the navy yard to attend the reception.

SKATERS IN FANCY GARB

Brilliant Scene On Piedmont Rink Surface Last Evening.

The carnival at Piedmont rink last night was one of the biggest successes of the season. The rink was brightly decorated for the occasion with green and electric lights. The large search light used to throw light on the moving throng was one of the leading attractions of the evening. There never was such an assemblage of skaters in the rink floor before. The prevailing costume of the evening was of a tramp effect, and was carried out to perfection. The most handsome and gayest skaters were seen. The most comical lady was Minnie De Garra, her entire costume was covered with vegetables, all kinds and sorts. The most comical gentleman was Fred Emley, made up as a Dutchman.

MARRIED IN HOT HASTE

And Now William John Is Reaping the Results and Repenting at Leisure.

After having secured his wife through a matrimonial agency, William John Cornell, a Frutkin carpenter, is now after a married life of but about two weeks, seeking to have his matrimonial obligations annulled.

Cornell declares that the woman he married is a blackmailer, a fraud and deceitful, and that she only married him to get some money out of him. She is Cornell's first introduction to the woman who bears his name was through an advertisement inserted on October 29, which reads as follows:

"A lady, 32, Swedish, wishes to correspond with kind gentlemen; no objection to widowers with small children; object matrimony. Box 3817, Chronicle."

Cornell immediately answered the ad and asked for an interview. He returned he received the following letter:

"Mr. W. J. Cornell, Frutkin, Dear Sir: Your answer in reply to my ad received. In response to same will say that I am pleased with your description and letter. I am a young lady, 32, Swedish, and I am glad to have the pleasure of meeting you, so convenient to me as you see you next Friday night at any time and place. Can meet you in Frutkin if you wish. Kindly let me know. Sorry to say that I have a photo to send you, but I rather meet you to talk things over, this being more satisfactory."

"Thanking you for your kind reply, and hoping that I may have the pleasure of meeting you very soon, I am, sincerely yours,

"MISS ELLA ROSELAND,"
"1720 Fillmore street, room 4."

The two met at 7 o'clock on the evening of November 5, at Cornell's home, at which time Cornell told Miss Roseland that he wanted to marry a woman who would be a true, honest and dutiful wife, and that he did not want an immediate answer to his proposition, but that she should take a week to think it over.

At the end of six days the woman, who told Cornell that she was single, and a dressmaker, had lived in America only six years, stated that she would marry Cornell, and the wedding took place immediately.

They had been married but a few hours when the first quarrel occurred, and Cornell states that within four days thereafter his bride left him. He states that she returned and demanded that he give her a large sum of money if he desired a divorce or wanted the marriage annulled, and threatened to annoy him until he gave her what she wanted. He declares that afterwards she told his attorney that she would consent to free him if he gave her $3000.

Cornell further declares that his wife never lived at the address she gave him, that she was not a seamstress, and that she was merely an "adventurer." He says the room she claimed was not her own, but occupied by C. W. Cole, a divorce attorney, who advertises that a divorce can be had for only $12, "quick, quiet, and safe" free from publicity. WOLVES RAID FARM AND KILL CATTLE. IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Nov. 29.—A band of wolves raided a farm near Foster and killed two head of cattle, a horse and four sheep. The wolves went almost to the door of the residence, through a window.

Wolves have become so numerous that a big wolf hunt is planned, all hunters in this part of the State to give several days' service to the killing of the animals.

There is a large bounty, but the wolves cannot be trapped, and seem poison proof. They go in bands, and it is said that one band will kill more deer in a season than all the hunters in the State.

Mr. Wyatt says he and his eighteen-year-old son, Newton, killed ninety-one snakes while plowing up a thirty-five acre tract. Five acres of the land were ploughed last year, the rest not having been touched for a number of years. Thirty-six of the ninety-one snakes were of the timber rattlesnake.

INTRODUCES LAND BILL

Senator Heyburn Will Frame Bill Creating United States Land Courts.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Senator Heyburn, at the opening of the session of Congress next Monday, will introduce a bill creating United States land courts in each of the public land States, in which an appeal may be taken from any final decision by the registrar and receiver to such courts and at the same time secure judges who will be appointed for their special fitness and ability to handle such cases.

Mr. Heyburn thinks this will relieve the general land office of the Interior Department of the necessity for deciding legal controversies affecting the entry of public lands and will greatly curtail the expense and delay incident to such contests and at the same time secure judges who will be appointed for their special fitness and ability to handle such cases.

TWENTY FEROCIOUS ROUNDS FAIL TO FIND A NEW HEAVY-WEIGHT CHAMPION OF WORLD BURNS AND O'BRIEN FIGHT DRAW

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—"Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien and Tommy Burns of Los Angeles last night fought twenty ferocious rounds before the Pacific Athletic club to a draw. When the end came it found the two men in the center of the ring engaged in a fierce struggle for the mastery. The whole upper part of their bodies was covered with blood. While Jeffries held up the gloves of both fighters a shout of disapproval went up from the Burns followers, who believed their man had won. Burns, who fought like a bulldog from the beginning to the end, was always on the aggressive, crowding his opponent to the ropes and frequently rushing him about the ring almost in flight. The fighting practically from the first round to the last was terrific and unceasing. Burns landed undoubtedly many more blows than his opponent, and they seemed to show greater force. O'Brien's footwork, however, was fast and clever, and his ducking saved him time and again from severe punishment. Burns, however, landed many stiff blows on O'Brien's face, and had the latter's nose bleeding and his eye laid open in the early rounds of the fight. Burns, too, was severely punished about the face. His nose been bloodied and his left eye completely closed at the termination of the fight.

The men showed evidence of the bitterest feeling toward each other throughout the fight. It looked about the middle of the fight as though Burns would win easily. O'Brien was almost groggy at different stages and this knockout seemed not improbable. But in the sixteenth round O'Brien, who had rested in the clinches, appeared strengthened and for a while carried the fight to his opponent. Neither man scored a knockout during the fight. Jeffries' refereeing was eminently satisfactory. Jeffries experienced the greatest difficulty in prying the men apart from the tenacious clinches in every round of the fight.

BURNS CLAIMS DECISION.

After the fight Burns said: "I won fair and square. I think the decision was bad. I chased O'Brien miles all over the ring. Just compare our faces and draw your own conclusions."

O'Brien said: "I am very well satisfied with the decision. Jeffries did the right thing. I outpointed Burns. I think, but I was a little light for him. Hereafter I shall fight in the middle-weight class. Burns was a bit stronger than I. He punched and he fought a good fight."

Referee Jeffries, defending his decision, said: "There was nothing to warrant a decision in favor of either. Both were strong at the finish. The referee's leading done to justify the selection of the best man."

DISPUTE OVER BELT.

When O'Brien and Burns entered the ring O'Brien found serious fault with Burns' belt, which he claimed, was an inflated affair. As the men conferred and argued and O'Brien insisted that he would not remove the belt. Burns attacked O'Brien, landing rights and lefts that did no damage. Burns continued to use his hands in clinches. O'Brien landed a right and left hook, evidently with some power. Burns showed ability to duck O'Brien's left leads. Burns again invited O'Brien to fight. He landed a straight left to the chest and a right to the head as the fight went into a clinch. Burns landed several light kidney blows, but they were not well taken by the crowd. O'Brien appeared much more worried than his opponent, and the effectual blows were largely in Burns' favor.

ROUND ONE. O'Brien clinched after a left lead and protested when Burns kept both hands working during the clinch. O'Brien staggered Burns with a left hook and they clinched. O'Brien landed a right hook, which Burns blocked. Burns was bleeding at the nose when the round closed, with little advantage for either man. The round was rather tame.

ROUND TWO. Burns landed a left to the ribs and assaulted O'Brien savagely, protesting to Jeffries for separating Jeffries and Burns. O'Brien landed a right to the ribs and Burns was hit for attempting to hit him in a clinch. O'Brien put a hard left to the stomach. O'Brien landed two straight uppercuts and lefts to the side of the head. Burns holding on fast. Burns seemed to lose his head and went into a clinch. The round was strongly O'Brien's, who appeared to have taken the measure of his opponent and seemed very confident.

ROUND FOUR. Burns was bled for hitting in clinches. He attempted to reach O'Brien's ear as they were closely locked together. O'Brien put a right to the shoulder. As they separated, Burns put a right hook to the jaw. O'Brien cleverly escaped from a corner. They exchanged right leads and O'Brien missed a stiff uppercut as the gong sounded. The round was rather tame, with a great deal of clinching.

ROUND FIVE. Burns put a right to the body. Burns took a left in the stomach. O'Brien missed a right swing, and they clinched. He danced away, but returned to plant a straight left to the jaw. They exchanged right leads to the jaw and O'Brien took a stiff left to the mouth that brought the blood. Burns chased O'Brien around the ring, and they rushed into a clinch.

ROUND SIX. Burns, with head down and eyes eager, continued to follow his man around the ring. O'Brien missed a straight left, and they clinched. Burns taunted O'Brien, asking him to stand and fight. O'Brien kept away and Burns repeated the invitation. They clinched. O'Brien treated O'Brien about his opponent, occasionally leading. The crowd displayed dissatisfaction and urged O'Brien to fight. Burns planted his left three times to the head as the gong sounded.

ROUND SEVEN. Burns attacked savagely, landing rights and lefts that did no damage. Burns continued to use his hands in clinches. O'Brien landed a right and left hook, evidently with some power. Burns showed ability to duck O'Brien's left leads. Burns again invited O'Brien to fight. He landed a straight left to the chest and a right to the head as the fight went into a clinch. Burns landed several light kidney blows, but they were not well taken by the crowd. O'Brien appeared much more worried than his opponent, and the effectual blows were largely in Burns' favor.

ROUND EIGHT. Burns put left to head and right to jaw. It almost swept O'Brien off his feet. Burns chased his man around the ring, attempting to win a rush. O'Brien put a short right jab to the chest. They clinched. O'Brien put right uppercut to chin. O'Brien spit blood freely, and Burns kept away as long as he was able. Burns finally stood still and waited for him to come into range. Burns displayed unexpected ability in slipping under O'Brien's leads. Burns was always the aggressor. O'Brien was making a poor showing.

ROUND NINE. Burns met O'Brien in the latter's corner with savage right to the jaw and they clinched. O'Brien kept away. They rushed into another clinch. Jeffries broke them with difficulty. Burns' right for ribs was short, but immediately afterwards landed a stiff right to the head. He afterward landed a right on O'Brien's face, which was covered with blood. Burns was trying to land a knockout blow. O'Brien put a right hook to the chin. Burns landed a right to the chin. Burns received two light blows on the left side of his head. The round, through Burns' eagerness to attack, was his. O'Brien appeared somewhat depressed when the gong sounded. O'Brien's eye was badly cut.

ROUND TEN. Burns continued his rushing tactics, and O'Brien slipped in vicious swings. Burns hit hard in a clinch. They exchanged straight lefts to the face. O'Brien held on to a clinch, with Burns landing on his back, where a pink plaster adorned O'Brien. O'Brien seemed to be leaning grossly on Burns' shoulder. He straightened up. Burns up with a right uppercut. He took hard rights on the kidneys. O'Brien poked Burns with two straight lefts at long range, for the first time using a lead that has always been his style of battle. Burns stood with disgust in the center of the ring.

ROUND ELEVEN. Burns rushed his way across the ring. He met O'Brien in a clinch, using his hands whenever opportunity afforded. Burns took a straight left and set O'Brien, and again he landed two straight lefts and taking a stiff left in the stomach. Burns landed two light blows, but failed to escape two light lefts. They clinched. O'Brien danced away, then closed in after Burns had planted a left hook to the face. O'Brien landed a stiff uppercut as they clinched and put a straight left to the face as they separated. Burns landed a left lead. Under the glaring star light O'Brien's visage was a ghastly sight. Jeffries' white shirt was bloodied from shoulders to cuffs, owing to his interference in the clinches.

ROUND TWELVE. Burns pursued O'Brien over the ring and landed a left on the face. He requested O'Brien to break after a clinch. O'Brien's elbow met Burns' face as they clinched. Burns' gloves were bloodied. O'Brien, and again he protested. Burns landed a left to the ribs and a right to the face. Burns hooked with a light left to the head. Burns landed a left and chased his man around the ring. O'Brien rallied, lashing two uppercuts to Burns' chin. Burns was compelled to duck under the heavy onslaught. Burns swung O'Brien from him with apparent disgust at his tactics. Honors were even.

ROUND THIRTEEN. Burns appeared eager to come to closer quarters, but O'Brien evaded and suffered punishment in a clinch. Jeffries used all his strength to break them. They closed their eyes and repeated the performance. O'Brien took two damaging lefts that renewed the stream of blood from his mouth and nose. He appeared more willing to come to close quarters and used his right to upper cut with advantage twice in rapid succession. Burns put a light left to the chin. O'Brien protested as they clinched. Burns slipped over a straight left and the round ended with little advantage to either man, except that O'Brien seemed a little bolder.

ROUND FOURTEEN. Burns began the round with one of his spectacular rushes, and as soon as released by the referee in a clinch, he rushed in on O'Brien, landing a hard right to the head, and then several body blows at close range. Burns slipped under a left lead and assaulted O'Brien's kidneys. O'Brien landed a clear left to the chin before they clinched again. Burns led with a left hook to the stomach. O'Brien then put a left hook to the stomach. Burns landed a right to the chin. Burns shot his right to the jaw, and they were clinched as the round ended. O'Brien made a much better showing than he did earlier in the fight, and the crowd called on him for a speech.

ROUND SIXTEEN. They met in a clinch in which O'Brien was pushed by his seconds. Burns missed a right hook and ducked a left swing. O'Brien landed a straight left to the face. They clinched again and Burns, in breaking away, jabbed O'Brien twice with the left. Burns' second protested against O'Brien's holding his (Burns') right knee. As they broke from a clinch O'Brien landed a light right hook and Burns countered with a left jab to the ear. Jeffries worked hard to separate them as they clung together. O'Brien put a stiff right to the ear as the gong sounded. The round was in O'Brien's favor to a very slight extent.

ROUND SEVENTEEN. They met in the usual clinch and Jeffries' services were in immediate demand. O'Brien ripped in a stiff uppercut and escaped a rush by Burns into a neutral corner. O'Brien put a left hook to the head, and Burns followed with a left to the face, both appearing effective. O'Brien landed a straight left to the eye and they clinched, holding until Jeffries broke them. Burns managed to catch O'Brien with a light left hook and missed a savage right swing a moment later. Burns put home a stiff jab to the chin and received a left to the body. The gong rang with the men in a clinch. The crowd hissed vigorously because Burns showed with his left after the bell clanged.

ROUND EIGHTEEN. Both men were fast and apparently not tired as the round commenced. They rushed hard. Both appeared cautious as if the fight had just begun. O'Brien landed a right to the head. Burns slipped inside two leads. O'Brien jabbed his man twice lightly with a light left and repeated the performance, dancing nimbly around the ring outside of Burns' vicious blows, which fell short. Burns, however, was still aggressive and used his shoulders to push Burns away. He landed a left to the stomach while entering a clinch. Honors were even, but O'Brien was using his left to his advantage.

ROUND NINETEEN. Burns was viciously aggressive, but O'Brien wrapped him in an embrace that required the referee to break. O'Brien put a right to the chin and a left to the face. In a clinch Burns put a left over to the face. O'Brien tried three times to land a left, which he found had the effect of keeping Burns at distance. Burns blocked a left hook and took a right to the chin. Burns slipped under a straight left and sent a right to O'Brien's body. Burns followed with a left jab to the ear. They were locked in an embrace when the round closed without advantage to either. Burns' left eye was closed. The crowd was on its feet, expecting that the fight would go the limit.

ROUND TWENTY. Burns attempted to strike with his left arm, and Jeffries used all his strength to force them apart from a clinch. His efforts sufficed to keep them apart but a short time. Burns sent his left to the head as they broke. Burns appeared somewhat less vigorous, and weakened when O'Brien planted a hard left to the jaw. In a clinch that followed Burns' head was seen to wobble and he was not so vigorous. He clung fully twenty seconds to avoid punishment, and Jeffries used his shoulders to push Burns away. The entire house was standing.

DOCKED HORSE CAN'T ENTER STATE

LAW DEBARS ENTRY OF FANCY "KING HIGH" INTO HUMANE COLORADO.

Owner Purchases Animal for $800 to Please His Wife.

DENVER, Colo., November 29.—"When will you send another carload of Kentucky horses through Center City, Ia., to Denver? I will pay you liberally if you will let me slip into it a docked horse I have sold to a Denver man and which I cannot send by itself on account of the law."

This was part of a letter received by Milk Inspector Edwin Raymond Beck from O. E. Westlake, and there by hangs an interesting story.

A prominent and wealthy man here, said Beck, bought that horse, whose name is "King High," and he paid $800 for him. He is an exceedingly fine harness horse and the man's wife has seen him and she declared that she must have the horse.

This man has automobiles and he is fond of them and he was anxious to go into the horse business; that is, to add a fine stable of horses to his place, but the docked horse law has prevented him.

Westlake says he is not responsible for the law, and that he has already missed three sales for the horse, and the Denver man is up against it.

"I don't think Mr. Westlake will get me into any business like this as long as I have my right mind. I would like to help him out, but I cannot do it that way."

Charles E. Stubbs' fight to have the docked horse law annulled by the Supreme Court of the United States will have to be finished first. The wealthy Denver man, whose name will not be divulged, can bring his animal to this city.

POWELL WINS ON A FOUL BY THOMPSON IN THE TENTH ROUND ALL BETS HOLD GOOD

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Lew Powell gained an unexpected victory over Cyclone Thompson in their fight last night at Colma in the tenth round. The struggle was a desperate one every inch of the way, and when it was over the spectators were divided in their opinion as to which man would have won had the fight been allowed to proceed. The blow which laid Powell writhing on his back in the ring was a short right uppercut, which landed in the groin. Powell was unable to continue, and Referee Roche called the club physician, Dr. H. G. Plymire, to make an examination. He said that while there was no external evidence of a foul blow, it might have been possible that the boxer was fouled.

Powell was in evident physical distress, and it was some time before his seconds could remove him from the floor of the ring to his corner and thence out of the ring. The fight was one of the fastest and most bitterly contested seen here in some time. In the early stages Powell seemed timid and his hitting was not as effective as it has been in the past. He took an incredible amount of punishment about the body, and about the fifth round it did not seem he could go much farther.

From the seventh round he seemed to gain in confidence and freshened up, and was punishing Thompson severely about the head and body. Thompson is a seasoned ringster, and in the early stages of the fight he seemed to pay no attention to Powell's blows. He fights after the style of Battling Nelson and is continually boring in, giving an opponent no chance to rest. He did but little leading, but was quick to rush in to close quarters and then slam away with both hands.

POWELL WEATHERS STORM. He had Powell's body a livid red from the effects of his blows, and it seemed the ex-amateur could not stand the severe bombardment. He weathered the storm, however, and in the later rounds was able to block most of the blows.

The fight was marked by viciousness throughout and both men bled profusely before they had been in action many minutes.

Powell's friends would not have given much for his chances up to the seventh round, but in that period he came up with a rush and punished Thompson severely. He shot up his right twice in blows that shook up Thompson and also gave him a severe peppering with both right and left to the head.

He followed up this advantage in the eighth round, using his left for jabbing and then bringing over his right to the head. Thompson came back with a rush and landed a left to the head. He swung twice, but missed both times. Near the end of the round Powell sent a right to the body that took some of the steam out of Thompson.

Powell was using his right more freely in the ninth round and scored with it several times to the head. In the previous round his seconds had cautioned him about using this too freely as they were afraid that when he drew it back his opponent would beat him to the punch.

BETS NOT DECLARED OFF. The spectators who were on the Thompson tried to have all bets declared off, but as the referee was convinced that a foul had been committed he refused to make the necessary declaration in the ring. Powell was a 7 to 10 favorite in what betting was done.

Thompson was well seconded by Harry Foley, Joe Thomas, Tommy West and Rawhide Kelly. In Powell's corner were Billy Murnane, Hurley, Kevin and Kammerline. As Al Nelli, Frank McConnell and Joe Thomas have completed their training for the fight, they were at the ringside and were introduced by Billy Jordan.

The Congo Kid was disqualified in the third round of his fight with Jack Johnson, as one of his seconds jumped in the ring.

CLIFFORD IS LOOKING FOR BATTLE

The Marysville Athletic club, through Barney Van Buskirk, manager and matchmaker, has written Eddie Smith, sporting editor of THE TRIBUNE, asking him to arrange a twenty-round boxing contest to be held December 15, at Marysville. Van Buskirk is particularly anxious to secure either Fred Landers or Fred Ward as an opponent for Jack Clifford, and will guarantee a $500 purse for the contest. The last contest held at Marysville between Cordell and Clifford drew almost $1000, and as the coming contest will be on the evening of the new electric road from Chico, the managers feel confident that the next contest will draw much better.

News comes from Louisville that Harding, a famous race horse, has mysteriously disappeared from Churchill Downs and detectives in the East and West are trying to find the bay son of Blazes-Miss Alice. The horse was claimed out of a racing race by a Chicago man. Detectives, it is said, discovered that a horse supposed by them to be Harding was being painted a chestnut, but the stable hands spirited the horse away before any arrests or identification could be made. Harding holds the track record for one mile at Latonia, and during the last season won seven races. The turf authorities are quite uneasy, fearing that a ring case will be sprung.

Ten Fierce Rounds End in Draw.

Young Chynohki and Kid Jackson fought ten rounds to a draw at Grass Valley Monday night. The former was the aggressor and did some hard hitting. Jackson was the cleverer and his left-hand jabs were most effective. Both men were marked up. Young Chynohki is looking for a Christmas fight and may be matched with Jack Clifford, if the latter wins.

MANHATTAN

McELVANEY & TORPEY THE BROKERS AT THE MINES

We arrived in Manhattan from San Francisco with the pioneers, and by reason of our knowledge of the ore occurrences in the Great Manhattan Mining District since the inception of the Camp, are in a position to discriminate between the more desirable and the less desirable Manhattan Mining Stocks in the INTEREST of our CLIENTS.

When others lost faith in Manhattan after the San Francisco disaster and deserted their holdings, we remained on the ground and purchased properties for our clients which today are worth Treble the price then paid.

We have made Thousands of Dollars for our customers and ourselves, and will make Millions for those who favor us with their business.

The RICH GOLD bearing deposits of the Great Manhattan District are as yet practically unscratched, and the Fortunes thus far made in Manhattan mining securities and in Manhattan mines are but as a grain of mustard seed to the Greatly Vaster Fortunes which await those who have confidence in the camp and the Courage to back up their Convictions with their money.

We have the Courage of our Convictions, and are Backing Our Faith with Our Money.

We Are the Firm that first demonstrated the Great Value of the Copper Deposits of the East Manhattan section, destined to become one of the Richest Copper producing districts of the country.

We control the properties of the

Toquima Copper, Bonanza Copper, Ralston Valley Copper, and Round Mountain Mutual Mining Companies

Experts in our employ—Men who have for years made a study of the ore occurrences in the great copper belts of the world—have made exhaustive tests of the Copper Deposits in the acreages of the companies above mentioned, and are a unit in the opinion that they will produce Millions of Dollars' worth of the Red Metal.

THE RICHEST MINING MAGNATES OF THE WORLD MADE THEIR VAST FORTUNES IN THE COPPER BELTS. WHY NOT YOU?

We recommend the purchase of TOQUIMA COPPER shares at current prices. Of Bonanza Copper shares at 20 cents. Of Ralston Valley Copper shares at 15 cents. Of Round Mountain Mutual shares at 15 cents. Of Wolfstone Extension shares at 10 cents. Of Manhattan Mammoth and Independence Consolidated shares at current prices.

All these stocks are listed, or application for listing made on the SAN FRANCISCO and NEVADA STOCK EXCHANGES.

Shares in Manhattan mining promotions are Advancing Steadily on the Merit of the properties whose worth they represent.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY MANHATTAN.

We predict an advance of from 10 to 100 per cent in all meritorious Manhattan and Round Mountain stocks by January 1.

Within three weeks important STRIKES have been made on the estates of the Manhattan Consolidated Company, Stray Dog Manhattan Company, Indian Camp Manhattan Company, Manhattan Consolidated Extension Company, INDEPENDENCE CONSOLIDATED COMPANY, Manhattan Combination Company, Manhattan Little Gray Company, Manhattan Wolfstone Company.

Shares in these companies and in scores of other Manhattan mining corporations are today selling at a ridiculously low figure as compared with the intrinsic value of their holdings.

Being ON THE GROUND we are in a position to secure INSIDE INFORMATION FIRST HAND of mining development throughout the Manhattan and Round Mountain Ore Belts, and to utilize the same for the BENEFIT of our PATRONS.

Our reputation for legitimate mining promotions can be ascertained by writing to any of our hundreds of customers, all of whom HAVE MADE MONEY ON OUR ADVICE. Addresses furnished on application.

MERRY HOLIDAY AT LAKESIDE

Skaters Throng Big Surface and Compete in Special Prize Program.

Thanksgiving Day was passed nowhere more enjoyably than at the Lakeside rink, where an attractive program of special music, races and prize contests had been provided by Messrs. Young and Coleman. All the afternoon the big surface was thronged by happy couples, whose interest centered in a race at 3 o'clock. Speed and grace were considered by the judges, who had a difficult duty, for patrons at the Lakeside are the best of skaters. The new Lakeside band, under direction of Leader Provo, rendered special music in the afternoon and will give an elaborate program tonight.

Two features this evening are a two-mile match race between four of the fastest skaters in the county, and a prize drawing for the ladies, Kennedy, Stockenbergs, Nicols and Miner will fight for supremacy and so evenly are they matched that it is not possible to pick a winner.

At 9 o'clock the lady who holds the lucky coupon will receive an order for a pair of skates. A coupon is given with each ticket and a drawing will determine the winner.

POISON FOR WORMS
NEARLY KILLS MAN

MONTROSE, Cal., Nov. 28.—Because he did not like to see worms eat his cabbages, Johnnie Edwards, a well-known Osmaron ranchman, came nearer to killing himself than he did the worms. He sprinkled a lot of paris green on his cabbages, and thinking that the action of the wind and the sun had neutralized the poison, he picked one of the cabbages and made it into cold slaw. After eating it he went into convulsions. He was brought to Montrose and had the poison pumped out of him by a physician.

RAILWAY BLOCK SIGNALS

have become an absolute necessity to the railroads for the safety of passengers and employees as well as protection for their own property. The number of frightful accidents of late has been largely due to the high rate of speed demanded nowadays, and the close spacing of trains due to the enormous increase in traffic.

A strong movement, inaugurated by the Interstate Commerce Commission is now under way to compel the railroads, by law, to install safety signal systems. A patent has just been granted to Paul J. Simmen, of Chico, Calif., for a device for this purpose which is remarkable in many ways, especially as to simplicity, low cost, and absolute reliability. A corporation, the

Simmen Automatic

has been organized, taking over Mr. Simmen's patents, and will raise funds to install the system on several railroads at once. A limited amount of stock will be sold, and is now offered for public subscription. Great profits are assured to investors who now take advantage of the ground floor prices. A model is now in operation in our office and prospective investors are invited to inspect the working of this most extraordinary invention. If unable to call, write us for prospectus. We carry on the largest business in unlisted stocks on the Pacific Coast, and execute orders also for listed stocks of all exchanges. Members Oakland Stock and Bond Exchange.

WONDERFUL DISPLAY IN PAN BY BLOCK BUTTE ORE

Wheeler Group of Goldfield Claims Will Soon Be the Scene of Renewed Activities.

The latest and probably the best discovery, as far as ore values go, in the Goldfield district, that has yet been made in the Diamondfield Block Butte development, is in stope on a chute of high-grade ore on the surface close to the incline shaft, rock that assayed into the thousands was shot into. An open cut revealed the presence of an apparently extensive ore chute, much going around $500 and $600, and for the past few weeks have been employed in stocking the rock. Into this a shot Sunday resulted in displacing a character of rock dissimilar to any yet found on the property, seemingly of a tellurium formation and carrying much higher values than that before encountered.

Assays such as $900, $1050 and $1750 were secured. A sample taken from the side of a 100-foot rock went $1700 the ore was a most wonderful discovery. This ore is of a high grade and has been unexplored for some time, and has a width of two feet.

WILL GO TO WORK.

Work will begin at once on the Wheeler group of four claims, belonging to the Goldfield Block Butte property, owned by Dr. L. G. Wheeler of Tonopah, who will remove to this city this week, and begin work on the property. The claims, running up into the hundreds of dollars, several hundred feet of work have been done on this well-located group of claims.

BULLDOG HAS THE ORE.

A gall war frame and a fifteen-horsepower gasoline hoist have just been put in place on the ground of the Diamondfield Block Butte property, owned by Dr. L. G. Wheeler of Tonopah, who will remove to this city this week, and begin work on the property. The claims, running up into the hundreds of dollars, several hundred feet of work have been done on this well-located group of claims.

DEAL IN THE WHIPPORWILL.

Developments during the past several days have demonstrated that two of the ledges on Rochester ground extend into Whippoorwill territory. The Whippoorwill group of three claims, owned by the Rochester acreage, Pouch ledges have now been proved on the Rochester estate. As soon as a certain development is made, the Whippoorwill group of claims secured upon the Whippoorwill ground. Shortly afterward the deal was closed.

WORTH THOUSAND DOLLARS.

An independent and hitherto unknown ledge, between the Goldfield and the Rochester acreage, Pouch ledges have now been proved on the Rochester estate. As soon as a certain development is made, the Whippoorwill group of claims secured upon the Whippoorwill ground. Shortly afterward the deal was closed.

VERNAL TO RESUME.

The Vernal Mining Company will resume work shortly under direction of G. W. Vernal, president of the company. A double compartment shaft will be sunk and a hoist installed.

SECRETARY MAKES ANNUAL REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—In his annual report, the Secretary of Agriculture says:

VALUE OF LEADING CROPS.

Corn remains by far the most valuable crop, estimated at eleven hundred million dollars. Next comes the cotton crop, which, including seed, should be worth to the growers nearly six hundred and forty million dollars. The value of hay, which is third in order, approaches six hundred millions. Wheat, the fourth crop, may be worth four hundred and fifty millions; oats, three hundred millions; potatoes, one hundred and fifty millions. Early, with a value of fifty-five million, and the value of tobacco, which is produced in the past few years. The tobacco crop will be worth about fifty-five millions. A remarkable development is that of the sugar beet, which is valued at twenty million dollars. In 1908 it is placed at three hundred and forty-five thousand million dollars. Seven years ago the value of this crop was seven million dollars. The values of all kinds of sugar, 33,000,000, and of the sugar beet, 33,000,000, are included in the seventy-five million dollars.

INTRODUCTION OF VALUABLE PLANTS.

In the bureau of plant industry the leading features of the work of the past year have been the co-operative demonstration work with farmers, fruit growers, and others under the bureau supervision of the department, and the introduction of new crops of economic value. One of the most important achievements in this latter line is the discovery of the existence of a Siberian alfalfa, a plant native on the dry steppes of Siberia, where the mercury freezes without snow.

NATIONAL FOREST RESERVES.

Great progress has been made in the practical application of a national forest reserve policy. In area the reserves were increased during the year from 55,838,422 to 105,999,136 acres. The reserves brought in $767,493.96, as against $60,142.62 for the year 1907.

STRENGTH PLAY FILLS HOUSE

Robert Edeson in "Strongheart" Delights Audiences at the Macdonough

And Breaks His Leg—Noah G. Rogers Badly Injured in Accident.

"Strongheart" will be the bill at the Macdonough theater tonight and so every night the balance of this week. This place as produced by Robert Edeson, the principal force of "Strongheart," an Indian college student, one of the very best pure American plays ever presented. It is a play that will suit the dramatic tastes of the audience, and it is a play that will suit the dramatic tastes of the audience.

Robert Edeson, president of the Oakland Bank of Savings, had the misfortune to break his leg. The fracture is bad, and will probably compel him to use crutches for the next six months. Mr. Rogers, who is a prominent orchardist of Santa Clara county, was superintending operations in his packing house near Los Gatos when he was accidentally thrown from a ladder.

Early Gift Hints

Illustrated above is one of the very latest designs in bookcases; made of quarter-sawn oak, finished the popular "weathered" color. Shelves that are easily adjusted; the two glass doors are latticed over, creating an odd and attractive design. The price on this particular piece is $40.50.

Don't want so elaborate a bookcase? All right! Take a look at those in oak, golden and Early English finish; and birch, mahogany finish that we are selling for $12.15. They are neat and handy—you'll say so, too, when you see them.

ISLAND STILL ABOVE WATER

Juan Fernandez Islands Reported to Have Sunk During Earthquake.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—Eugene Motz, Chilean Consul at Mexico City, received an official note from his government last night to the effect that the report circulated last August at the time of the disastrous earthquake saying that Juan Fernandez Island had sunk into the ocean, was untrue. The document said that the report of the disappearance of the island was not credited anywhere and no efforts were made to verify it. A short time ago, however, warships were sent out by the Chilean government and the island and its inhabitants were found uninjured.

50-YEAR OLD BOY MISSING

Father of J. R. Black Asks Police to Aid in Search for Son.

For nearly a week J. R. Black, manager of a real estate firm in St. George, which J. W. Gurnee, the San Francisco banker who was recently divorced from his wife, is treasurer, has been missing from the home of his father, R. H. Black, 4382 Howe street. The disappearance of Black has been reported to the police by his father, who stated that his "boy" had dropped out of sight November 22.

On that date Black left View Park, near St. George, presumably to come to Oakland. Since that time he has not been seen. The "boy," as his father calls him, is fifty years of age, of dark complexion, stout build and having a black mustache.

BALLOTS BY THOUSANDS FOR FAIR CONTESTANTS

MISS LONA LAWTON, who enters list for Piano Prize.

Young Ladies Set Fast Pace in Popularity Race for Tribune $750 Pianos.

Upon opening the ballot box this morning great bunches of ballots met our sight and all the available force of the office was called into service in order that the count might be finished in time to go to press. Hundreds of notes had to be segregated and counted so that each one should be given full credit with every vote that rightfully belonged to them.

It was not expected at this time to receive such a heavy vote as it was thought, as the battle has just begun, interest would not manifest itself before the coming week. This shows that the TRIBUNE'S popularity contest is appreciated and appeals to the people.

Miss Lona Lawton, one of Oakland's favorite daughters, whose likeness appears above, has begun in earnest and, while not at the top now, intends making a record for herself. Her many friends assure her of their hearty support in her effort to win the magnificent $750 piano, the prize to be given to the most popular young lady in Oakland.

All the contestants have some votes and the majority, seeing how much faster the votes in subscriptions count up, have turned in a few of those.

Miss Lillian Graham is making a fine canvass, the effect of which places her in the lead in her district. There are others in competition with her, though, who will make it interesting within a few days.

Arthur W. Evans thinks that bicycle given to the most popular boy, looks good to him and is going after it with that determination so necessary to success in any undertaking. Even this early he has 1055 votes to his credit.

M. J. King, one of Oakland's popular mail carriers, has also reached the thousand mark and does not intend to stop at this point either. His friends wish him all success.

Watch the standings of the candidates. It takes hustles to keep in the lead. Those who now have only a few votes may be leaders tomorrow.

There are other reasons to consider in making a try for the prize besides the value of it, for that great contest, among its many benefits, will arouse a spirit of self-reliance and energy in all the contestants. As the struggle proceeds it will take on many of the characteristics of a political campaign with all the strategy that is displayed in a well-thought battle of ballots. But if one thing all those who take any interest in the contest may be certain and that is it will be fought out in a manly spirit.

CHINESE ADD TO RECORD OF ARRESTS

The number of arrests this month is far in excess of that of former months. Up to the present time, 822 persons have been taken into custody by local police. Raids on Chinese gambling dens have done much toward increasing the number of arrests. In one of these raids ninety-two Celestials were taken into custody.

HIS CELEBRATION ENDED IN CITY JAIL

F. J. Keller, known to many as the "Mayor of Piedmont," celebrated Thanksgiving eve with a vim and last night he was arrested on Broadway by Policeman Sill and charged with drunkenness. He was released on furnishing six dollars bail.
